LEAGUE WANTS MINISTER OUT

Claims Hon. S. L. Howe Lacks Interest in Welfare of British Columbia

Vancouver, Feb. 17.—The removal of Hon. S. L. Howe, Provincial Secretary, from office and the position to be filled by some one more interested in the people and the social welfare of the province, was the demand made by the provincial New Era League at a meeting held on Thursday afternoon.

A second resolution requesting the scrapping of the Whittier report was also forwarded to the government. It was considered that this report was destroying the principles of the Mothers' Pension Act as set forth in the original act and asked that the government of British Columbia should form the original committee that formed the act, together with the various members of all organizations who may be interested, regarding any change in the act.

SCHOOL COSTS ARE REDUCED

West Vancouver Board Notifies Teachers of Cut in Salaries

West Vancouver, Feb. 17.—To allow for printing of school board estimates from $75,279 to $68,145, a salary reduction of 20 per cent has been imposed on all teachers.

Last year the teachers received a reduction of 7 1/2 per cent. The new cut is made on the salary schedule and not on the actual salary, so it amounts to 12 1/2 per cent.

Notice their engagements with the board will terminate the end of the present term has been sent to all members of the school staff, which numbers thirty-two. This action was taken because tax collections can only be estimated and the municipal council might be unable to finance school services during the balance of the year.

Physicians who performed the transfusion left Mrs. Gill's room with the statement it was "immediately successful." By this, they explained, they meant there was no evidence the transfusion had not been a success.

CHEAPER BEER SOON IN B.C.

Vancouver, Feb. 17.—A Victoria dispatch published in The Vancouver Times this afternoon said:

"Brewers of British Columbia, their business gravely affected by a mounting tide of home brew, offered the government an entirely new beer deal to-day."

"At meetings with the liquor board and the Attorney-General's Department they proposed a heavy cut in beer prices, which would offer real competition to the increasingly active home brewer. Instead of beer for 82 per cent, they proposed that it be sold for $1.50 net."

FRAUD ON WIDOW NETS JAIL TERM

Auto Laundry Man Found Guilty of Getting Her Property by False Pretences

Second Trial on Getting Her Money Ends In Two-year Penitentiary Term

For getting the property of a widow by false pretences, Leslie William McVittie, auto laundry operator, was sentenced to one year in jail by Judge Lampman at the conclusion of his first trial here yesterday afternoon.

To-day he was tried on another charge of getting $100 from her by cheque for a trip to the interior on the representation to her he was in receipt of $125 a month salary.

McVittie took the stand and denied telling her that, but on the evidence the judge found him guilty and doubled the sentence of yesterday, making two years in the penitentiary altogether.

"From 1930 you have been receiving sums of money from this woman and have not been paying her back anything," said the judge. "It is quite apparent that for a considerable period of time you have been preying on this woman. I can't see any excuse for that. She believed you and signed cheques for you, trusting you."

The widow was Mrs. Letitia J. E. Less, 1145 May Street. Questioned on the stand by Prosecutor W. C. Moreby, K.C., she told how McVittie had been friendly with her and gained her confidence. "Then she had given him in (Turn to Page 2, Col. 7)

Due to arrive at New York three days hence, Ambassador 4th Lord Lindsay, above, is expected to lose no time in seeking an interview with Franklin D. Roosevelt. He will outline to the President-Elect the proposals for the forthcoming British-United States debt conference at Washington which were drafted by the cabinet in London during the Ambassador's recent visit there.

When opening the proceedings Mr. Ker said the latent power of saved financial resources should be put to useful work. "We certainly cannot longer continue on the basis of putting savings in the bank, whence they must be borrowed by the various governments. This distress is in great part due to reluctance to spend money now general among those well able to afford greater expenditures," he said.

Mr. Ker said the Greater Victoria Emergency Employment Plan was not a new idea, being modelled on similar undertakings in England, notably successful in Bristol. Work worth $14 for each pledge had been secured on the average as a result of 130 similar campaigns in other cities of North America.

"If such a success attains the Victoria campaign, and I am sure we can easily attain $14 a head, this effort will provide $900,000 of new work," he said.

The hearded chieftain of 10,000 Doukhobors in British Columbia and Saskatchewan has been held in the immigration detention quarters here since February 3, when he was brought from the jail at Prince Albert, Saskatchewan, after serving nine months of an eighteen-month sentence for perjury.

Recommendations Based on Study of Committee of Nineteen Will Be Debated at Session of League Assembly Friday of Next Week; Great Moral Victory for China, Says Dr. W. W. Yen; If Assembly Approves Recommendations on Vote Japanese Delegate Will Withdraw to London or Paris to Await Final Outcome

Canadian Press and Associated Press
Geneva, Switzerland, Feb. 17.—Less than an hour after the League of Nations had transmitted to all the world's governments its report and recommendations, totaling more than 24,000 words, on the Manchurian dispute to-day, Yosuke Matsunaka, the Japanese spokesman, said his government would not accept them.

He defended preparations for invasion of the province of Jehol, asserting Japan would fight if she had to, but he evaded questions about the possibility of his government's withdrawal from the League.

Another snag appeared in the attitude of the spokesman for Russia, whose government the League is asking to co-operate in negotiations for a Manchurian settlement. He indicated Russia believed this new effort to find a solution never would reach the stage of the negotiations proposed.

VICTORY FOR CHINA
The League of Nations Assembly report on the Manchurian dispute is a great moral victory for China, according to Dr. W. W. Yen, that country's senior delegate, here.

Dr. Yen said he did not want to say definitely China would accept the report, but acceptance appeared to be inevitable in view of his high praise for the work of the conciliation committee of nineteen.

He declined to discuss details of the report, which was drafted by the committee of nineteen.

"To protect Manchukuo," he declared, "we must possess the chief town of Jehol. The only way to get peace is for the Chinese to withdraw their troops from Jehol."

"I have heard there are about 160,000 Chinese troops in Jehol, but one Japanese is worth ten Chinese as all Chinese soldiers are bandits."

"Nobody in the League wants Japan to leave," he said. "And Japan does not want to leave, but if the League creates certain circumstances, the League may compel Japan to leave."

count Yasuya Uchida, Foreign Minister to his viewpoint. It was said they had jointly urged their colleagues to agree with them.

It was reported the ministers assembled for the meeting there were some still opposing withdrawal.

DECLARED ONLY COURSE
"Many fear secession from the League means Japan's isolation, but it will not be any worse than it is today," the general was reported by newspapers as saying before today's cabinet meeting.

He was said to have made the observation that withdrawal was the only course left open in view of the reported League recommendations which urged the nations of the world to continue to refuse recognition to the state of Manchukuo, established in Manchuria by the Japanese.

Each minister had a Japanese translation of the report of the recommendations of the League Assembly is expected to adopt February 21.

There was no question of Japan's attitude toward the recommendations, its rejection of them, already having been determined. But the cabinet at its meeting was asked to decide whether they were so fundamentally hostile toward Japan as to compel her to relinquish her League membership.

COUNCIL OF ELDERS
If the final vote is "yes," the cabinet then will be called on to determine the manner of the empire's exit from the Geneva stage. Even after the cabinet agrees, it is expected to seek endorsement of the Privy Council and possibly a special Council of Elders. Such a council has not met for a decade. This would be done before the decision is submitted to the Emperor.

These stages of procedure are likely to consume several days, or even weeks.

ARMY LEADERS OPPOSED
Despite the militarists' stand, it is known an influential civilian and official element, joined by a section of the navy, is loath to relinquish League membership and Japan's place in the League Council.

Among the foreign diplomats in Tokyo, many are of the opinion Japan will remain in the League.

LAST OF FAMOUS DRIVERS PASSES

John Hamilton Drove Stage From Yale to Clinton in 1876; Great Record

Kamloops, Feb. 17.—There passed away last week at Midnapore, Alta., one of the original four stage drivers for the B.C. in John Hamilton, at the age of eighty-four years. He had the run from Clinton to Soda Creek, 130 miles. Weekly trips, weather never too cold or too hot, blocked to stop him. About 1876 he was given the run from Yale to Clinton, 130 miles weekly, the year around. He was noted for keeping up his average. Mr. Hamilton left the B.C. in 1877 and bought a ranch in Nicola Valley and after a few years there went to Calgary, bought a ranch near there and went into the stock business, mostly horses. Of the original four drivers the B.C. had in the early '70s, namely, Steve Tingley, Jim Hamilton, Bill Johnston and John Hamilton, he was the last to pass away. During the many years he never had an accident, never took any chances whatever.

Few of the present day people realize what staging meant in the early days. The express left Yale every Monday for graph, declares against the maintenance of snow or rain never stopped them, and started on its 400-mile trip to Barker-ville. Weekly trips the year around after 1871. Previous to that it was mostly during the winter. The people living en route from Clinton to Barker-ville waited for the express company to break the roads after there had been a snowstorm. The company made it without a murmur. No snowploughs in those days, what they did have were first-class horses that never needed urging; lots of the teams, four horses, would make their drive of about twenty miles head up and on the bit.

Mr. Power supported his motion with the opinion, the Governor-General's order commencing the sentence for eighteen months to nine months must be unconditional and, therefore, Verigin should be a free man.

THIRD APPEARANCE
Verigin appeared in court to-day for the third time, as immigration authorities were required to show cause for his detention, and as the case proceeded before Mr. Justice Mellish an argument developed over the status of a passport.

At the hearing, Mr. Power contended the passport could not be deported until his sentence had been completed, according to the Immigration Act, O. B. Smith, K.C., representing the immigration department, declared the sentence had been commuted and the authorities were free to deport the Doukhobor leader to his native Russia.

Mr. Smith said under new instructions the Governor-General had power to impose conditions. The condition in this case was the prisoner should be held for deportation.

NOT CANADIAN CITIZEN
Replying to Mr. Power's statement there were no grounds for deportation, Mr. Smith referred to the deportation order, which set forth the prisoner was not Canadian citizen, that he had been convicted of an indictable offence and had become an occupant of a jail.

The Governor-General's commutation order, a copy of which was produced in court to-day, bore the date January 21, 1933.

DESCRIBED AS RELEASE
Commenting on the question of whether conditions might be imposed, the judge said:

"I think it is a release. He is to be deported because he was in prison, and the pardon annuls all proceedings subsequent on his conviction. In that case it is all over. This is to be regarded as the exercise of the Crown's prerogative of mercy."

QUESTION OF CHOICE
Mr. Power said the prisoner was not bound to accept commutation of sentence, and intimated Verigin might choose to serve the remaining nine months before being deported.

Withdrawing from the court, Mr. Power said the prisoner was not bound to accept commutation of sentence, and intimated Verigin might choose to serve the remaining nine months before being deported.

CLEARED OF CHARGE IN CALIFORNIA

GUY IS FOUND NOT GUILTY

The almost fantastic career of Wandersell, thirty-nine-year-old Polish-born soldier, fortune-teller, widow, is the former Olivia Hall of Winnipeg and Victoria, B.C., was ended by a pistol bullet aboard the Carma while it was docked in the ocean harbor here.

In a few days, the Carma, a former rum-running craft bought at a customs auction, was to have put out for Hawaii, the South Sea and Oriental ports on a vagabond cruise for which the strangely assorted "crew" members were charged $100 each.

Guy was not a member of the crew, but he and his wife were members of a 1931 automobile-ship expedition, Buena Aires to San Francisco, which they left in Central America after a quarrel with the leader, Wandersell. That quarrel was offered by the prosecution as a motive for the killing of Wandersell.

Receiving the verdict with a characteristic smile and thanks to each of the jurors, Guy was taken immediately to the county jail at Los Angeles to await the decision on a charge of illegally entering this country, which has been pending almost since the time he was arrested December 7 in the murder case.

IDENTIFICATIONS NOT ACCEPTED
A. R. Montgomery, jury foreman, said the jurors believed lightening conditions about the yacht afforded too great a possibility for error by members of the crew. He identified the defendant, Guy, as the man who was the "stranger in grey" who appeared at a porthouse and asked for Wandersell just before the shooting.

Guy's defence was an alibi. He brought witnesses who said he was at the home of an acquaintance thirty miles away the night of the slaying.

The Carma's crew included a titled Englishman—Lord Edward Montagu, second son of the Duke of Manchester. Lord Montagu formerly lived in Edmonton and Victoria.

Amalgamation Plan In North Vancouver

vided, the ratepayers of the municipalities would have the privilege of voting on referendums previous to actual amalgamation taking place. It has been decided to seek union on the basis of an urban municipality.

The petition recites that the affairs of the two municipalities are at present administered by one commission and that in view of the city and district being adjacent to one another, they could be administered economically as one area, thus obviating the necessity of two administrative staffs, police forces, engineering staffs and waterworks systems.

It is also recited that previous to incorporation of the city, it and the district were one municipality and that in the interests of economy, it is expedient legislation be enacted at the coming session of the House to enable two municipalities to be made into one city.

To ensure an equitable basis of amalgamation, it is suggested in the petition a commission should be appointed to work out the details of the merger on a fair and equitable basis. The commission would consist of representatives of the bondholders, the electors and the provincial government.

When the copies of the petition have been prepared, they will be widely distributed in the two municipalities so the ratepayers will have every opportunity to sign them in time.

checked out only $4,610,000—just 17 per cent of the amount " earmarked" for withdrawal during the "holiday." It was considerably less than a routine day's business.

Elsewhere throughout the state most of the banks remained closed, except in this district where without having to send money out of town or pay any overhead expenses. "It is not wonderful then I do not know the meaning of the word," he said.

"We are going to play safe and see what we can do to remove this problem of hard times. Thousands of people have recaptured the spirit of service. In this district scores of people are going around quietly doing good works. You do not hear of that sort of people, but let anyone do an ill-turn to someone and it is blazoned all over the town," he said.

The proposal as advanced by Senator J. H. King, was for a Dominion-provincial conference of governments and representatives of all transport interests. This was dismissed by Senator Meighen as too big and unwieldy a body to make a proper study. On the government leader's assurance Senator King withdrew his resolution.

various amounts a total of $4,000. After that he got her to sign documents on her Cook Street property in the Fairfield district. She trusted him and later discovered that he had thus obtained her signature to the conveyance of the property. But before she found out, he had obtained $580 more on March 2, 1931, and another $100 on July 18, 1931.

McVITTIE ON STAND
McVittie was put on the stand by his counsel, H. A. Beckwith and Robert Yates. He testified the money was used in his auto laundry business, putting more and more in to save what he had put in before in hopes there would be a good tourist season which would enable him to get all his own and Mrs. Lee's money back. He said Mrs. Lee did not like being bothered about business and he would just take the documents up to her house for her to sign them.

Under cross-examination by Mr. Beckwith, McVittie admitted that he might have used for his own personal use some of the money obtained from Mrs. Lee's ostensibly to bolster up the auto laundry. He also said: "I replied to the prosecutor that he could not produce the books of his auto laundry as they had disappeared somewhere in Vancouver, where he was arrested about a month ago after disappearing from Victoria."

The judge found McVittie guilty on the fact that the way in which he had obtained the signature of the widow to the document converting her property away from her when she trusted him and thought she was merely signing some other kind of a simple document, constituted false pretence, as charged.

McVittie's second trial on the second specific charge of obtaining by false pretences the $500 he got from her on March 3, 1931, also started to-day before Judge Lammiman, but it was discovered that in this there was no case for him to answer, and he was given a verdict of not guilty on it. A fourth case similar against him is to come up next Wednesday.

The witnesses to-day included Mrs. Lee, J. P. Walls, R. R. Garner and Douglas Wyndham Carter for the prosecution. For the defence, H. A. Beckwith, counsel, called Mr. McVittie and Thomas Collet Ross.

A smoking concert will be held at the Army and Navy Veterans at 8 o'clock to-morrow evening. The following artists have promised to assist and a merry evening is anticipated. M. Lee, Frank Allwood, Doug, Park, Sid Chiversall, Geo. Ingledew, F. Grimston, H. Warren, R. Smith and W. Gas-kill.

Roosevelt's Followers in Washington House Decide to Support Bill

Associated Press
Washington, Feb. 17.—The United States House of Representatives Democrats in caucus to-day bound themselves to vote for prohibition repeal Monday under a suspension of the house rules. The vote was 115 to 46. The vote was on a motion to bind themselves and was not on the proposed constitutional amendment.

This assures more than two-thirds of the Democrats will vote for the senate prohibition repeal proposal. Nearly two score Democrats gave notice they desired to be excused from the iron rule of caucus because of previous commitments made to their constituents.

CITY AIMS AT CUT TO 41 MILLS

which was supplemented by $200,000 refunding of serial debentures and a $500,000 loan.

A forty-one mill rate for 1933 would make the total tax levy $1,761,764, to be supplemented by refunding of $225,000 in debentures. No new borrowing is contemplated this year, except, possibly, a loan to cover cost of material on public works done by unemployed relief labor.

Salary cuts have already taken up part of the slack in the budget, but something like $150,000 still must be shaved before the figures will balance on the papered rate.

One of the substantial aids to balancing the budget without a tax increase is a healthy surplus in the sinking fund investments. Owing to the far-sighted policy of the 1933 council in "budgeting for the future" the city retains this reserve to help it over more difficult times.

"Until the city is advised of the government's plans in regard to grants and allowances the budget cannot be settled and this is one of the jobs in the situation which requires careful study."

Sour Stomach, Gas

Hamilton, Ont.—“I was very much discouraged. I could not enjoy a meal, because of the bad after-effects—sour stomach, gas and indigestion pains. I lost weight, became nervous and slept poorly—nothing seemed to help me,” said Wm. Pashinski of 491 Kenilworth Ave., N. “I bought three bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and almost immediately my digestion was better. I enjoyed my meals without the former ill-effects, my appetite improved and I felt so much better. I cannot praise it enough.”

TROOPS MASS ON JEHO LINE

By JAMES A. NIELSEN, Associated Press Correspondent
Mukden, Manchuria, Feb. 17.—Roads southward and westward from this most important Manchurian city are alive night and day with Japanese and Manchurian troops moving steadily toward positions, whence they will “jump off,” probably within two weeks for the long-awaited invasion of Jehol province.
The drive along the 200-mile front is expected to bring the biggest Japanese-Chinese clash since fighting began in September, 1931, with the capture of this city by the Japanese.
The combined Japanese-Manchukuo force is expected to total 50,000, half of them tested Japanese veterans. They will oppose about 150,000 loosely organized Chinese.

Modern mechanical branches of Japan's powerful war machine, airplanes, tanks and armored motor cars are being fully mobilized.
HOSTAGE REPORT
The Japanese assert the wife of the Chinese governor of Jehol, Gen. Tang Yulin, is being held as a hostage in Peiping to make him offer fierce resistance to their troops. They accuse Marshal Chang Hsiao-ling, the north China war lord, of holding Tang's wife at his headquarters in the ancient Manchurian capital, which is about 100 miles south of Tang's capital at Jehol City.
The Japanese confidently predict the Jehol campaign will last less than one month after it is definitely under way. Japan declares she is not at war with China and describes the Jehol drive as merely a “policing” operation. Its aim is to bring Jehol under the control of the Japanese-maintained government of Manchukuo.

OPPOSE CUT IN BUTTER TRADE

New Zealand Dairy Interests Want Unrestricted Entry Into British Market

Canadian Press
Wellington, N.Z., Feb. 17.—Butter producers of New Zealand, to-day voiced official opinion they could not safely restrict exports to the United Kingdom.

This statement followed the declaration Wednesday the government was prepared to regulate butter exports to Canada to protect Canadian producers. The Dairy Producers' Board, meeting here to-day, discussed recent reports from England that the United Kingdom might put an import restriction on dairy produce. As pointed out by Rt. Hon. J. G. Coates, Minister of Finance, any restrictions on New Zealand exports would have to be voluntary, since the Dominion's producers were protected under the Ottawa agreement.

Producers decided to-day, however, it would be impossible to restrict exports of New Zealand butter to Great Britain, and resolved the only sound policy for the further welfare of the country was to aim at the attainment of free trade with Britain before the expiry of the agreements of the Imperial Conference. The government was urged to begin to take steps immediately reducing import duties on British goods to compensate for the rise in the rate of exchange. The board also urged restriction of production would react on the capacity of New Zealand to meet the British loan obligations.

Views of the board were communicated to the cabinet, and it is expected Premier G. W. Forbes will make a statement on the question to-morrow.

It was pointed out at Ottawa this week that shipments of New Zealand butter to Canada had practically ceased, for the time being, and that no ships would arrive at British Columbia ports from New Zealand for some time.

COLDSTREAM TAX PROBLEM

Vernon, B.C., Feb. 17.—Coldstream Ranch has advised Coldstream municipality it is unable to state whether the 1932 taxes will be paid. The ranch has inquired as to whether land only will be taxed for the domestic water supply, and if the rate struck is to be twice as high as necessary to raise the money required during the year.

Because the Coldstream Ranch taxes are about 40 per cent of the total levy the question of whether the taxes will be paid is of the greatest importance to the municipality.

SAYS UPSWING TO BE GRADUAL

No Substantial Unemployment Reduction for Ten Years

Canadian Press
London, Feb. 17.—Rt. Hon. Neville Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, told the Commons yesterday evening reduction of unemployment in Britain to comparatively small figures could not be anticipated within the next ten years.
The Chancellor was replying to a motion of censure against the Government put forward by Rt. Hon. George Lansbury, Labour leader, on the ground the administration had failed to deal with unemployment. The motion was defeated by 414 votes to 40.
Mr. Lansbury urged on unemployment could be remedied if goods were produced for the “use of mankind” and not for private profit.
Mr. Chamberlain maintained the government was on the right road toward ultimate solution of the problem with its policy of restoring confidence, raising wholesale prices, providing cheap money and encouraging international co-operation.
He agreed with Mr. Lansbury that displacement of labor was one of the gravest problems facing the world in the immediate future.
DESCRIBED AS GHOSTLY
The Chancellor's remark that it would be ten years before unemployment would be reduced to any great extent drew from Rt. Hon. Winston Churchill, former Conservative Chancellor, a heated rejoinder that such a prospect was “ghostly and that if this were the government's view, the word, ‘ghostly’ was very grave and lamentable.”
Premier MacDonald, winding up the debate, came into sharp conflict with Rt. Hon. David Lloyd George, former leader of the Liberal Party, who criticized the Lansbury Reparations Conference as futile in view of the United States being unable at the time to discuss war debts. Mr. Lloyd George, the Prime Minister, declared, was absolutely wrong in his attitude. He said the government was in a better position to enter a debt conference March 4 with the United States than anyone had believed possible.

Commons Votes Ban On Liquor Exports to U.S. Is to Continue

By 100 to 44 House Rejects Private Member's Bill Designed to Give Clearances to Ships

Canadian Press
Ottawa, Feb. 17.—While the United States Senate was adopting a resolution to repeal the Eighteenth Amendment of the Republic, the Canadian Commons yesterday decided against lifting the export ban on liquor shipments to the United States.

Premier Bennett and Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Liberal leader, united in opposing a private bill sponsored by Col. S. C. Robinson, Conservative, Essex West, Ont., to repeal the 1930 legislation which outlawed liquor exports to dry countries.

The bill was defeated 100 to 44, the members for the most part voting regardless of party affiliations. Two cabinet ministers voted for the bill. They were Hon. E. J. Manion, Minister of Railways, and Hon. Arthur Sauve, Portmaster-General. Of the forty-four supporting the bill, twenty-two were Conservatives, nineteen Liberals, two Labor and one Independent.

KING SPEAKS
When Canada outlawed liquor exports to the United States there was no suggestion of some reciprocal benefit from Washington, said Mr. King who was Prime Minister when the ban was introduced.

Exports to United States had been prohibited so Canadians would “not become allies of smugglers and criminal gangsters,” Mr. King said.

GOODWILL GESTURE

It was a principle of international law, to say nothing of international goodwill and neighborliness, said Premier Bennett, that a country should provide an opportunity for its own citizens to break the laws of another. United States was still a dry country, liquor still was considered contraband, and for Canada to legalize exports to that country would be a breach of international friendship.

The 1930 customs prohibition, the Prime Minister said, would not apply until liquor shipments to the United States the day that country repealed its Eighteenth Amendment. The ban would not apply because the United States then would not be classed as a dry country.

Removal of the export ban was urged on several grounds by Col. Robinson and those supporting his view—because Canada was said to be losing millions of revenue, because it would provide employment for Canadians and would permit liquor shipments to leave openly for the United States, not through St. Pierre, Michelson and other back-door routes.

PRISON GUARDS ARE INCREASED

Commons Learns of Steps Taken as Result of the Kingston Riots

Canadian Press
Ottawa, Feb. 17.—As a result of the recent riots in federal penitentiaries, the number of guards at the three prisons where riots broke out had been increased, Hon. Hugh Guthrie, Minister of Justice, told the Commons yesterday evening.

Another result of the riots would be more attention would be paid in future to the selection of guards.

Mr. Guthrie made his statement in opposing a bill introduced by Thomas Reid, Liberal, New Westminster, to establish the eight-hour day for both guards and prisoners in penitentiaries. While he favored the principle of the eight-hour day and would like to see it established in penitentiaries, said Mr. Guthrie, he did not believe it should be done at this time because it would mean an additional annual expenditure of $240,000 a year.

After a brief discussion Mr. Reid withdrew the bill, stating he was pleased with Mr. Guthrie's views and did not wish to press the matter at present.

SENATE DEBATE

Sharp words and frayed tempers distinguished the usual placid calm of the Senate yesterday as Senator Arthur Meighen, government party leader, clashed with Senator John Lewis, Liberal, Toronto, on the latter's resolution respecting prison discipline.

EXPLORING NEW CATTLE MARKETS

Canadian Press
Winnipeg, Feb. 17.—There never was a time when a clear-cut programme designed to build up beef cattle breeding and finishing might be initiated with more assurance of success than the present, Dr. E. S. Archibald, director of Dominion experimental farms, said at his annual meeting of the Canadian Short-horn Association here yesterday.

The speaker emphasized the need of a definite survey of the marginal districts, especially in eastern Canada, as to whether a beef or a dairy programme should be carried out, and declared a real responsibility rested with the association.

MACHINE AGE SIFTON'S TOPIC

Head of Canadian Newspaper Chain Addresses Club in Vancouver

Canadian Press
Vancouver, Feb. 17.—Science and the machine and their accomplishments for man, have led some people to the idea politics can be reduced to a cold mathematical equation—that people could apply exact scientific principles to the rule and conduct of human beings—but such belief is wrong, in the opinion of Harry Sifton, president of the company which controls a number of newspapers in western Canada.

Success of mechanical development—some people call it technocracy—has caused the loss of judgment in these matters to some people, according to Mr. Sifton, who addressed members of the Vancouver Canadian Club at a luncheon yesterday.

“Mechanical growth,” he said, “has, I think, unbalanced the judgment of the average person. Man is fascinated with things he can do with such slight effort through the agency of science and the machine. As a result I think he has lost a good deal of judgment as to what he can really accomplish.”

CAPT. C. G. BROWN IS IN HOSPITAL

Undergoes Medical Examination Following Courtmartial Conviction at Winnipeg

Winnipeg, Feb. 17.—Captain Charles G. Brown, for years an officer of the Lord Strathcona Horse, who was discharged from the military service following his conviction by a courtmartial on a charge of conduct unbecoming an officer, to-day was a patient in the St. Boniface Hospital.

He has been in ill health and suffering from diabetes for some time, and on instructions from Ottawa is submitting to a medical board examination which will confine him to the hospital for ten days.

Meanwhile a resolution and petition of protest against his losing his pension will be forwarded to Ottawa by all veterans' organizations in Manitoba if a proposal to be discussed at meetings scheduled for the next few days is adopted.

RELIEF DISTRIBUTION

Ottawa, Feb. 17.—(Canadian Press).—No instructions have been issued by the Federal Government to reduce unemployment relief anywhere. Hon. W. A. Gordon, Minister of Labor, so informed the Commons yesterday in answer to a question. The only condition of disbursement he said, was that the amounts distributed be applied to fuel, food, clothing and shelter.

He entered the hospital yesterday.

Lord Hailsham, Secretary of War, said he intended to attend the conference unless it was conducted along the lines of the Ottawa conference, with every detail prepared for discussion beforehand.

Britain Negotiating With Twenty Nations, Says Chancellor of Exchequer

Canadian Press
London, Feb. 17.—Hon. Neville Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, told the Federation of British Industries in a speech here that creation of the Canadian tariff board was not designed to shut out the rest of the Dominion Government was carrying out the agreements it signed last summer at the Ottawa Economic Conference.

He noted a short list of duties had already been sent for its consideration. The Chancellor said the fact that the United Kingdom had begun commercial negotiation with twenty nations was proof the Ottawa agreements were not designed to shut out the rest of the world from the British market.

Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas, Dominion Secretary, urged application of a “common sense” to questions connected with the Ottawa agreements. He said he believed the greatest achievement of the conference would be seen in the world economic conference if the empire were able to say it was subordinating its individual interests to those of the world.

Lord Hailsham, Secretary of War, said he intended to attend the conference unless it was conducted along the lines of the Ottawa conference, with every detail prepared for discussion beforehand.

MR. BENNETT AND MR. KING TAKE PROPER STAND

Premier Bennett and Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King are to be commended for their stand in opposition to the bill presented to the House of Commons by Col. C. S. Robinson (Conservative, Essex West), which sought to rescind the legislation banning the export of liquor from this country to the United States. Party lines were divided when the vote on the second reading was taken, the measure being decisively thrown out, 100 opposing it and forty-four favoring it.

The plea advanced by Colonel Robinson in support of his bill was that Canada had been losing considerable revenue since the export ban went into effect in 1930; he saw no reason why this loss should continue in view of the fact that the liquor laws of our neighbor on the south were destined soon to be changed. Mr. Bennett very properly pointed out to the House that it was a principle of international law, to say nothing of international goodwill and neighborliness, that no country should provide an opportunity for its own citizens to break the laws of another. He emphasized the fact that the United States was still a dry country, liquor was still considered contraband, and for Canada to legalize exports to that country would be a breach of international friendship.

It may be true that the ban on liquor exports has been responsible for the loss of some revenue; but the fact remains that when the Canadian Parliament approved the legislation it put an end to a condition along the border which had become a public scandal. The bootlegging and hi-jacking fraternity was active day and night. After all, national pride and decency are more important than the monetary profit which came from the border liquor traffic.

THE ANGLICAN SYNOD AND BOYS AND WOMEN

Boys who have reached the age of eighteen in future will be eligible for election to the Anglican Synod of British Columbia. Another attempt to extend similar privileges to the women was defeated at Wednesday's session of this body. The resolution embodying the proposal required a two-thirds vote of all the delegates in attendance. Seventeen clergymen supported it and thirteen opposed it; thirty-eight laymen also favored admission, but twenty-seven cast ballots in the negative. Ardent protagonists of the women's cause included both Bishop Schofield and Dean Quainton.

The lay delegates who voted to exclude women took the stand that in view of the criticism that men's interest in the work of the Church was falling, the time was not appropriate to decrease their responsibilities by admitting women to the Synod. One lay member, incidentally, could not see why women now should be given the privilege sought since women had been given no important place in the history of the early Church; but he followed this up with the additional and amazing objection that the presence of women in the deliberations of the Synod would hamper free discussion of such questions as birth control, divorce, sterilization of the mentally deficient, social diseases, and other problems. Those clergymen and laymen who supported the resolution, however, naturally based their argument on common justice—a generous recognition of the magnificent work the women had done, were still doing, and would continue to do in every department of Church life.

There is no desire on our part to enter into a discussion of the manner in which the Anglican or any other Church conducts its internal business. But it will strike the average individual that if boys of eighteen are to be eligible to become executives of the Anglican Church, for example, women of mature years with a broad experience of Church work and an intimate knowledge of the problems of life most certainly should at least be put on an equal footing. It is not necessary to emphasize the fact, of course, that when the Church requires funds, when it desires any progressive scheme carried out, when there is any special social service work to be performed, the first call goes out to the women, and it is usually promptly answered.

The suggestion that women should not be admitted to the Synod in 1933 because women had been given no important place in the early history of the Church is not very convincing in the face of the fact that in many other aspects of its work and life the Church differs from the Church of, say, five centuries ago. What part did youths play in the assemblies of those times? In any case it seems strange that they should be entitled to take part in the discussion of social problems, such as divorce, birth control, sterilization, and so on, while women must be neither seen nor heard.

The size of the vote in favor of the admission of women to the Synod would seem to suggest that eventually the light will dawn on those who consistently oppose the proposal. If, as suggested, the Church is losing ground under existing conditions, it must be taken for granted that continued refusal to utilize the full value of women's influence in its deliberations is hardly likely to strengthen it.

OUR STRONGEST INSTINCT

The instinct of self-preservation is usually a good deal stronger than we realize; so strong, indeed, that it can be impossible to check it.

A New Yorker, down on his luck, tried to commit suicide by throwing himself into New York Harbor not long ago. He got into the water on schedule, all right, but once he had done that his body refused to give up the struggle. He was an expert swimmer, and in spite of his wish to die he found himself swimming around lustily. After some twenty minutes he gave up, crawled out, and let the police take him to a hospital and put him to bed.

"I just could not stay down," he explained. As an example of the way in which the body insists on clinging to life this little tale is as interesting as any that has got into print in a long time.

HON. HUGH GUTHRIE AND DISCONTENTED ELEMENTS

Mr. J. S. Woodworth has a bill before the House of Commons which would take some of the severity out of that section of the Criminal Code of Canada which prescribes the penalty for unlawful assembly, and Hon. Hugh Guthrie, Minister of Justice, is asking that it be given a six months' hoist—that it be thrown out and forgotten.

Mr. Guthrie is reported to have "bared" the "red menace" in Canada, when he told the House that a number of "dangerous organizations were operating throughout the length and breadth of this country." He described the Canadian Labor Defence League as "a Communist society of Canada operating under another name." He declared this organization has its affiliations outside of the Dominion. "I know that," the Minister informed the House, "from telegrams I have received threatening myself. I have been told that 150,000 Communists in New York are watching me; and I forget how many hundreds of thousands in Chicago—all telegrams framed, I believe, in the city of Toronto." But if the Minister is sure all these telegrams were framed in the city of Toronto, it is somewhat difficult to understand just why he should be alarmed. It almost suggests that his leg has been pulled.

In recent months public officials in several cities of the Dominion, notably in Toronto, have been suffering from frayed nerves as the result of demonstrations by unemployed persons who have said unkind things about governments and what they choose to call the capitalist system. When men are hungry and are out of a job they are apt to be a little extreme. If the Minister of Justice were not sure whether he would cat for the next two days, even his feelings might get the better of him and tempt him to rail against society in general.

It is necessary, of course, that law and order be maintained. But it is poor policy to label a man a "red" or a Communist because he feels he has a grievance, and says so. If every person in Canada who is not enthusiastic about the manner in which the government at Ottawa is conducting the business of the country must be considered a menace, and dealt with under the Criminal Code, Mr. Guthrie would have a real job on his hands.

Macaulay's dictum, "liberty sustained by law, and law sustained by liberty," should be borne in mind these trying times. More than 100,000 persons—unemployed—and their sympathizers—marched through the streets of London to Hyde Park recently to let off steam; and they went through the whole calendar of discontent there. But mounted police looked on and did nothing else. Nobody was hurt. If Mr. Guthrie could obtain a verbatim report of all the speeches delivered by every kind of "ist" in Trafalgar Square and Hyde Park, he would have sufficient reading material of the deepest crimson hue to entertain him for the rest of his life.

What Canada should do is take care lest by adopting draconian methods she does not produce really dangerous elements. There is surely a middle course which should obtain better results.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

SAFETY FIRST

The Regina Leader-Post

It is better to have banks in a sound than in an unsound position. The howl that is heard in the country to-day about banking matters would be nothing to what the noise would be if a Canadian bank were to fail and the depositors were to lose their money.

WHEAT PRODUCTION AND PRICES

The Winnipeg Tribune

We have led the world in increasing wheat acreage following the disappearance of Russia and the Balkan countries from the ranks of the exporters. There is every reason why we should now set the example of reducing acreage. All the world wheat conferences which could be held, all the legislation which could be sought, would not be so effective in the direction of improving wheat prices as this one step.

HYDRO MAY NOT TRESPASS

The Quebec Chronicle-Telegraph

(The government at Quebec will not permit the Ontario Hydro Commission to extend its operations to the Province of Quebec.) Hydro was established by the Ontario Government to provide the people of Ontario with electricity at cost and it has therefore no right to reduce that cost to the people of Ontario at the expense of the people of other provinces by doing business outside of its own provincial territory.

STRANGE REVERSAL

The Baltimore Sun

One of the curiously illuminating events of the times is the arrival in New York of M. Edmond Jonas, French art dealer, who comes not to sell but to buy. A few short years ago the arrival of a French art dealer in the City of New York for any such purpose as this would have been considered fantastically impossible. American millionaires were raking in the art treasures of the Old World, paying fabulous prices for many of their purchases, and their zeal for buying appeared to be inexhaustible.

Whether their zeal might have held out if their money had in a question over which the doctrinaires may argue through the long winter evenings just ahead. The point is that the money did not hold out, and that some Americans who formerly bought from Europe with lavish hands are now reduced by the pressure of adversity to the point at which they are willing to part with some of their accumulations. Hence M. Jonas comes over from Paris to reverse the direction of the traffic in which he is an intermediary. He has a pool of $1,200,000 at his command and promises that the sum will be augmented if his mission turns out to be as profitable as he expects.

A THOUGHT

And again I say unto you, It is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle, than for a rich man to enter into the kingdom of God.—St. Matthew xix 24.

How many threadbare souls are to be found under silken cloaks and gowns—Thomas Brooks.

Loose Ends

We have our boys, too—we preserve our splendid individualism at all costs—our women prepare to make life more beautiful in pants—a pathetic illusion is maintained—and Sally is promised a real Valentine.

By H. B. W.

FLESH CREEPERS

EVERY GENERATION of men seemed to have a private bogey of its own. Probably we are so constructed that we need one for our happiness. The Middle Ages had their Anabaptists. Then came the Jacobins. After that our grandfathers were terrified by the wicked Socialists, who appear rather pale and pink now. To-day we have our Reds. The Canadian House of Commons is worried about the Reds. It worried about them all one afternoon this week, and Mr. Guthrie, the Minister of Justice, made the House's flesh fairly creep, like the fat boy in Pickwick, as he told of the organizations which were plotting the overthrow of our system. You would think that Mr. Guthrie and his police alone stood between us and the Abyss which, if it were true, would surely mean that we are going over the edge.

Mr. Guthrie and his police alone protect us from a Red Revolution, you had better fill your cellar with canned goods and machine guns and prepare for the revolution at any moment. For if history has proved anything at all, it has proved that police forces never stop revolutions, usually precipitate them, and that when men are not allowed to assemble and discuss things freely, they explode like gas which is compressed.

HOWEVER, I EXPECT no Red Revolution in this country, though we are already in the very throes of the greatest peaceful revolution in history, so great, so fundamental and far-reaching that no man can tell the end of it or really understand it in the least. What interested me in the House of Commons debate on this assembly and free speech was the cheerful assertion of great statesmen that they were striving only to protect the splendid and rugged individualism of this Continent. They were trying to save it from the menace of regimentation, of standardization and compulsion such as is suffered by the backward Russians. One appreciates the statesman's heroic efforts to preserve our individualism and freedom of thought, but alas, their work is utterly wasted for there is no individualism to save and precious little thought, free or otherwise.

THINKERS

THE RUSSOED individualism of this Continent, in fact, is history's most delightful myth. In Russia, men are compelled to think alike on the larger aspects of economic life, they think alike without compulsion, and the result is the same; or rather they don't think at all for the most part. They accept all the bunk that is handed to them by the small group which does think and which rules this Continent with an iron grip much more secure than the feeble hand of the late Czar Romanoff. If there had been any individualism left, if men were still able to think constructively about their problems, to adapt themselves to conditions as their grandfathers did under much more difficult circumstances, we wouldn't be in the trough of this Depression. It was the complete regimentation and standardization of thought during the war and then the perfectly-organized and unopposed lunacy of the bull market that put us where we are.

MUJIKS

NO RUSSIAN MUJIK could have been more complacent, more helpless and oblivious of everything than the average citizen of this Continent has been in the last twenty years: no dispossessed Russian peasant, marching to exile in Siberia, could take disaster with less protest and more utter hopelessness and despair than the enlightened masses of America. A new era of prosperity, a new system of glorious economics has been discovered to keep everybody prosperous, says the eminent Coolidge, and America believes it almost to a man. Prosperity is just around the corner and the stock crash means nothing whatever, says the able Hoover, and at once the free-thinking and individualistic inhabitants of this Continent rejoice in a new revelation. All is lost, the System has busted and only Mr. Guthrie and his police stand between us and the Abyss, say the chief industrialists and statesmen, and America is sunk in despair and grimly awaits the end. But thank heaven and the Canadian Government that we still have our rugged individualism, even if we would rather die than be individual. And we would all gladly die for the right to think provided, however, that we don't have to.

PANTS

HAVING NO aristocracy by law, having proclaimed the undying principle that all men are born free and equal (and having died for it frequently) the United States has set up an aristocracy of its own in Hollywood, probably the most remarkable in history, certainly the easiest to look at. This aristocracy, through its two chief figures, Miss Garbo and Miss Dietrich (who would be duchesses, at least, in any country which had a spark of gratitude or imagination), has lately decreed trousers for women. Miss Garbo wore them to a party somewhere and Miss Dietrich was seen shopping in pants. The inevitable has happened. American womanhood has become pants-conscious and the enormous activity required in the clothing factories may be sufficient to lift us by the pants clear out of the Depression.

THE NEW STYLE, it is reported, will invade Victoria within a few days to add another charming little touch of England to the shores of the Pacific. Well, it is all right with me, provided it doesn't involve skirts for men, although in many families that arrangement would more accurately represent the actual relationship of man and wife. What worries me is the aesthetic aspect of the matter. I mean, our streets look bad enough now with the City Council cutting all the boulevard trees and everybody wearing the look of a man whose salary has just been cut. What will they look like when women wear trousers?

WHEN GARBO and Dietrich wear trousers in the movies, I admit, there is a fascination about them, a certain elegant grace and grace, and even a plover hat or a top hat takes on a new lustre and a peculiar glow, makes old men wish they were young again, causes young men to wonder why they ever married and settled down. Our women, poor deluded creatures, imagine that in trousers they will look like that, too. The most pathetic feature of our civilization, indeed, is the general belief among women, amounting almost to a religious frenzy that, by wearing trousers or a certain kind of lipstick they can immediately transform themselves into the exotic beauties of the great American Aristocracy. The generation supposed to be the most sophisticated thus turns out to be the most child-like and innocent in history; and our streets, instead of being crowded with exquisite, dreamy creatures like Garbo and Dietrich, will be hideous with oddly-shaped and absurd imitations of men who already are oddly-shaped and absurd enough by themselves.

VALENTINES
THE LITTLE GIRL from next door was over here just now to show me her Valentines, a splendid collection covered with hearts and what I took to be the remains of her dessert. But even with admirers as distant as Vancouver and with greetings from several prominent citizens, she still wasn't satisfied. "Sally," she said, "is going to get an extra special Valentine next year. You know Sally? She's not very old yet, only three months and she doesn't know much. But Sally's daddy, he works in the Servatory at the Hull Hotel and he writes eggs up there. Sally's daddy, he looks after the stars up there. Every night he takes them into the Servatory and shines them up with silver polish to keep them bright, and if it's a wet night and raining he keeps them out because they would get wet. It keeps Sally's daddy awfully busy and when he gets home after minding the stars all night he's tired and sleeps most of the day. Well, Sally didn't get any Valentines this year but Sally's daddy, he told me that next year he would give Sally a nice shiny new star for a Valentine, for her very own, if she will keep it all shined up. And that's what I want for my next Valentine, is a nice shiny star for my very own. But the trouble is my daddy doesn't work at the Servatory and Sally's daddy he's pretty mean with his stars and won't give many away."

SHELTER MEN GIVE CONCERT

An audience of nearly 300 men enjoyed a fine concert at the Citizens' Restaurant last night. A new feature was the fact that part of the programme was supplied by men who frequent the rooms.

Mrs. W. D. Todd, who is chairman of the entertainment committee, was mistress of ceremonies, and contributed two groups of songs. Community singing led by Mrs. Todd, opened the programme.

Other numbers were: Piano solo, G. Rose; instrumental duet, F. Lavery and Frank Lavery Jr.; skipping act, W. Clarke; dance number, Miss Francis Merryfield; mouth organ band, Harmonica Ramblers; group of solos, C. E. Becker; piano accordion, H. G. Willis; solo harp solo, F. Lavery; violin solo, Harry White; baritone solo, A. H. Rundley; piano solo, C. Parker; song, "Home on the Range," Frank Gibson.

Encores were demanded to all items on the programme. The accompanist was George Rose.

Considering the example the players are setting, it won't be surprising if the bat boy holds out for a bottle of pop from home run hitters.

To the Editor—The publicity given through your paper to such subject as Technocracy, which has now been clearly presented with its pros and cons, has earned for you, I am sure, the appreciation of many of your readers, whatever their personal opinion; to have the light of honest investigation of both sides of such a question is far better than brushing it aside as merely the "blowing Utopian soap bubbles," the words of your contemporary.

However, visionary it seems at present we must remember that creative imagination is the forerunner of all our institutions of to-day and what is due to come in the near future has already been worked out or already taken place on the inner planes for all is governed by invisible architect and humanity is irresistibly pushed along her evolutionary path.

Your Baby
and Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

WHY HUNT FLAWS IN HEALTHY,
CONTENTED BABY?

Mothers are ever on the hunt for trouble. They are not satisfied with a good weight, good disposition, and good sleeping habits. If one single thing is less than perfect, they are worried.

The mother of a nine-year-old boy whose breath is occasionally offensive will not be satisfied, even after repeated physical examinations, that nothing serious can be wrong with so healthy a child. It is possible that the child may have some food idiosyncrasy which shows itself in an odoriferous breath after partaking of this special food. It may be that the nasal cavities are slightly infected. But an occasional bad breath, in the face of every concrete evidence of health, need not be taken too seriously.

BABY IS HAPPY

Here is another mother whose only grievance is the baby's two-pound weight. She is active, pleasant, plays all day. She naps for an hour after lunch. She sleeps from 7:30 to 7:30. With all this she is two pounds overweight and does not have a daily movement. The mother's worry is how she can force more food on the child, for she refuses to eat only just as much food. Here is her diet:

Breakfast—Orange juice or four prunes; three tablespoons of cooked cereal and one piece of toast. Lunch—baked potato with one other vegetable. Two tablespoons of milk. Supper is how she can force more food on the child, for she refuses to eat only just as much food. Here is her diet:

CHANGING DIET
In this case the two-pound difference in chart weight and actual weight is immaterial. The child shows every indication of being well and happy. Offer one cup of milk with the morning meal. At noon serve, in addition to vegetables, fish, chicken, eggs, cheese, or peanut butter. The milk for that meal may be utilized in making one of the simple cereal puddings, rice, corn starch, sago, corn meal, tapioca or custard. The third glass of milk may be given in the middle of the afternoon, between 3:30 and 4:00, with two plain crackers.

NIGHT MEAL
At night serve cereal, stewed fruit, and the fourth glass of milk, and give nothing but water at bedtime. If exactly accord with the chart. A difference of two pounds under or over the stated "average" is of no consequence, provided the baby shows by her disposition and good habits that her nutrition is satisfactory. The omission of a daily movement needs no treatment whatever.

WORLD CRISIS
AFFECTS HEALTH

League of Nations Committee Investigates Physical Results of Unemployment

Canadian Press

Geneva, Feb. 17.—In the opinion of the Health Committee of the League of Nations, the world crisis has now become so acute as to have serious effects on public health.

This opinion was arrived at in the light of data contained in a report submitted to the committee. This report shows that there are some fifty to sixty millions of persons in the world directly or indirectly affected by unemployment.

Even these figures, says the report, are far from providing an adequate idea of the social disturbances provoked by the depression. The direct effect of the crisis is under-nourishment, and the data given by the report shows that a large number of unemployed, in more than one country, have not the means to obtain the minimum of food necessary for health, not to mention expenditure on boots, clothes and rent. But indirectly, the insufficiency of food, through weakening the body, allows disease, and particularly tuberculosis, to gain hold more easily, and the psychological effects of prolonged unemployment may give rise to mental troubles.

A further problem arises from the excess of the unemployed from towns and settlements in all countries, where sanitation is often defective. At the same time, the necessity for economy in the different countries has in many cases led to the reduction of credit for public health work.

The League Health Committee is now taking steps to pool the information available in the various countries with a view to enabling health administrations to adopt the most efficient and economical measures for grappling with the special health problems arising out of the world depression. As these problems are chiefly concerned with unemployment, the co-operation of the International Labor Organization has been secured.

St. John's Holds
Valentine Tea

A very successful Valentine tea was held in the rectory of St. John's Church Wednesday afternoon, under the auspices of the Ladies Guild, Mrs. Chadwick and Mrs. C. Tice, president, received the guests, while Mrs. E. Hall and Mrs. D. Fulton poured tea. The following artists contributed to a most delightful programme: Vocal solos, Mrs. L. Brichler, Mrs. T. W. Hayes and Miss Marjorie Watson; violin solo, Miss M. Thornborough; piano selection, Miss M. Glenden; bag, while Mrs. Gough and Mrs. G. Downard acted as accompanists. The rooms were tastefully decorated with spring flowers. Mrs. L. Melville conveyed the tea, while Mrs. L. Slomcombe had charge of the candy stall, assisted by Miss Wenger. Approximately $50 was raised which is being applied to the repairing of the steeple and roof which was so badly damaged during the recent storm.

Intermediates To

MRS. ROOSEVELT
NOT FEARFUL

Associated Press
Ithaca, N.Y., Feb. 17.—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, in a written statement yesterday evening, said she would not ask for further protection for her husband as a result of the attack on his life Wednesday night, and that so far as asking for protection for herself was concerned, she could not imagine "living in fear of a possible death."

Mrs. Roosevelt said the statement in reply to a number of requests that she express herself on the subject and suggestions that she should ask for secret service protection for herself and her children, and for additional protection for her husband.

While she was making this statement, it was learned officially in New York that authorities would urge both Mrs. Roosevelt and the President-elect take further precautions and make use of additional protection.

THREE WIDOWS
CLAIM MILLIONS

Legal Fight Commences Over Estate of Dr. W. H. Och-sner, Oil Magnate

Associated Press

San Francisco, Feb. 17.—Posthumous millions of the late Dr. Washington Henry Och-sner, whose claims in the Kettleman Hills field enriched his estate after his death, figured in court again here yesterday, but only for a brief formality over a purported will.

Attorneys said the next real contest in the long-drawn battle, being waged by three women who were wives at different times of Dr. Och-sner and three children of two of the marriages, will probably start before a jury, April 4. Superior Judge Frank H. Dunne set that time as the date for trial of a contest of the will.

Alleged proof of the will was presented at yesterday's hearing on a petition to have it admitted to probate. James Gregg Nelson of Sacramento, brother of Mrs. Nancy Och-sner Kelly, of Carson City, Nevada, the second wife, testified he wrote the will at dictation of Dr. Och-sner while the latter was ill with pneumonia in 1923. Nelson testified he placed the document, signed and sealed, among his personal papers, where it remained until January, 1932, when he found it and turned it over to Mrs. Kelly.

The will leaves the estate to two daughters of the second marriage, Miss Elizabeth Och-sner of Carson City and Miss Winifred Och-sner of Berkeley. It is being contested by Mrs. Hilda Carling Och-sner, third wife, who is seeking letters of administration of the estate in behalf of her six-year-old son, John Henry Och-sner. Mrs. Frances Och-sner, the first wife, also figures in the general contest over the estate. Nevada courts recently set aside a divorce of Dr. Och-sner secured from her in that state in 1906.

Esquimalt W.I.
Will Celebrate
Birthday Shortly

At the recent meeting of the Esquimalt Women's Institute held in the Parish Hall, St. Paul's Garrison Church, the re-elected president, Mrs. W. Geimes, was presented with a beautiful silver photograph frame by Mrs. N. Kelly, on behalf of the 1932 executive in appreciation of her ability in conducting the meetings.

Mrs. K. Sandler has been appointed district convener of home industries by the district board.

The birthday anniversary of the Institute will be celebrated at the close of the business meeting on March 14, when members will be joined by their husbands for a social evening. The business meeting will convene at 7:30 o'clock. A group of members will visit the Paper Box Company's works of Barclay and Chalmers in the near future.

The luncheon cloth donated by Mrs. Pocock was won by Mrs. Colby. The stool donated by Mr. Gibson was won by holder of ticket 50, application to be made to Mrs. Kelly, 1537 Esquimalt Road.

Following the meeting refreshments were served by Mrs. W. Douglas and Mrs. Pocock.

Stenographer Was
His Stepmother

Canadian Press
London, Feb. 17.—A business man has just discovered that a young woman in his employment has been his stepmother for the last eight years. He is Hubert Mew, an undertaker and upholsterer, of Parkstone, Dorset, whose father died some years ago. The family only knew of the marriage when an announcement appeared in a newspaper a few days ago stating that it took place in 1924 at Portsmouth.

The marriage took place while the employee was on holiday. When she returned to work she wore no wedding ring and nothing was said about a marriage. She had been and remained an employee of the business for many years. Now that she is leaving Parkstone she has announced the wedding for the information of those who know her.

"FIVE AND TEN"
HEIRESS SAILS

Just about to set sail on a 23,000-mile cruise to the South Seas and the Orient, Barbara Hutton, above, assured reporters that she is "a free soul" and that the swine and all rumors of her engagement to anyone were false. She is heiress to the $18,000,000 Woolworth fortune.

Peer's Daughter
Deplores Passing Of Old England

Hon. Victoria Sackville-West Tells Toronto of Changes in Social Life.

Toronto, Feb. 17.—One hundred servants-to-suit on-helm, an orchestra to play soft music in the musicians' gallery while he dined in the banquet hall—but not a single jug or washbowl which he could really call his own. Such was the plight of the Earl of Dorset, treasurer to Queen Elizabeth, when he lived at Knole, the ancestral home of the Hon. Victoria Sackville-West at Sevenoaks, in the seventeenth century.

Victoria Sackville-West illustrated her talk given here on "Changes in English Social Life." "I think we can sum it all up in that common phrase, 'What we lost on the swing and all rumors of her engagement to anyone were false. She is heiress to the $18,000,000 Woolworth fortune.'

She regretted deeply the passing of the elegance and grace of the England of the "upper classes and the landed gentry," but she felt that the nation has gained in honesty and vision. "I think we have lost the old tradition of keeping up appearances, which everybody knew was humbug," she said.

Colwood

At a business meeting which preceded the Hoodless celebration the Colwood Women's Institute decided to hold a silver-tee April 19, when there will be on display an exhibition of antiques, loaned for the occasion.

In response to a request from the Women's Auxiliary to the Queen Alexandra's Bazaar, it was decided the members would co-operate with sewing. Under the auspices of the Colwood basketball teams, a Valentine dance will be held in Colwood Hall to-night, starting from 9 to 1 o'clock. Novelty features will be introduced and Morgan's four-piece orchestra will supply the music.

Four tables were in play Wednesday evening at a card party held in Colwood Hall under the auspices of the Colwood Hall committee. Prizes were awarded to Mrs. S. R. Moore, Mrs. Frank Hughes, E. Wishart Jr. and Bob Wishart.

The Man Hunters

By MABEL McELLIOTT

(Copyright by NEA Service)

It was one o'clock. It was two. Through it all Ray remained perfect, fresh and composed. She drank little, "didn't believe" in it. But the shifting scene did not shock or startle her. Ray was a true child of the pavement. Nothing bothered her except the menace of unpopularity. It was enough to have "a date" for the evening. Where she might go or who her escort might be did not seem greatly to matter. Ray said she "knew how to take care of herself" and Susan, glancing at her, decided that probably she did.

"But I don't belong here," Susan decided. "This isn't what I want. Somewhere there must be the things I dreamed of - glamorous, romantic places with music and gaiety that aren't cheap. This isn't!"

At half past two they departed. In the car Waring tried to put his arm around her but Susan shrunk away. "Don't like me, eh?" His laugh sounded foolish. She forced a smile to her stiff lips. She must not offend this man. "Of course, I do. But I'm nervous about your driving. And it's so dark out here."

Ray called. "Don't worry about that. Jack's used to one-arm driving, aren't you?"

"Atta girl. Atta baby!" That was Sky. Sky was almost asleep on Ray's shoulder. Waring's arm remained where it was. Susan shrank from it. They were on the outskirts of the city now. The little, mushroom houses of the truck gardeners, huddled to gether, they passed a cemetery, the white stones arising up eerily in the gloom.

"Tired, sweets?" Susan shook her head. The man's fingers gripped her. "You're a nice kid and I like you but you're only half alive. Come to and enjoy yourself. Don't be a crepe hanger."

She said, "I'm sorry you think I sport everything."

"That's all right," his voice thickened, blurred again. "We'll paint the town sometime. You'd be grand if you just let yourself go."

Susan scarcely heard him. She was counting the blocks now. Eight - six - four - they were almost home.

"The next corner," she murmured, turning to Waring. "Nay that the dreadful evening was ended and she was almost effusive. To be home, safe and sound, seemed too good to be true!

"Don't bother to get out with me," she said hurriedly. She could see the Rose's figure - a mere blur - on the porch. Poor Rose! There would have to be a great deal of explaining.

Before Susan could open the car door and slip away she felt strong arms about her, a mouth pressed to hers.

"Good night, sweet child!" Jack Waring murmured.

Susan turned herself away, shaking in every limb.

Oh, she hated him, she hated him for doing that!

CHAPTER XV

"Well, you are a fine one!" Rose exclaimed.

Susan did not answer because for the moment she was busy fumbling in her purse for her key. She was conscious only of an exquisite sense of relief. It was enough to be safe at home with that nightmare behind her.

"I waited and waited," Rose was saying bitterly. "There wasn't anyone I knew to call; although I nearly did give Ben a ring." Susan gasped in horror.

"Oh, thank Heaven you didn't!"

"Well, I like that!" Rose stood transfixed, eyeing her. "You are a cool one! Here I've been fretting myself sick for the last three hours."

They were in the living room - now and Susan, having switched on the lights, sank into a comfortable chair. Rose pursued her grievance. "You haven't even told me whom you had with or anything," she said, annoyed. Susan could have laughed from sheer relief but she didn't dare. Rose was so much in earnest.

"If you'll just let me get my breath," Susan begged. "I'll tell you all about it. I don't blame you a bit for being furious, but honestly it wasn't my fault. I tried to break away two hours ago. It was ghastly!" She shuddered at the memory. How could she have been such a fool as to envy other girls those casual "dates" they boasted of? She knew now that she had been better off at home with Aunt Jessie sewing or reading, no matter how much she had resented the dullness of it. Well, she had had her lesson. She interrupted Rose's continued plaint to cross the room and stare at herself in the mirror.

"Do I look older?" she inquired. "I feel it - years and years."

"You look a fright," Rose assured her with a best friend's frankness. "You're as pale as a ghost and there are bags under your eyes."

Susan slipped her arm around Rose's waist. "Please don't be so cross," she said. "Even to an accomplice of 'ohs' and 'ahs' and 'I don't believe' she poured out the whole story of her adventure. When she had finished Rose said with emphasis, "I hope this will be a lesson to you. Now let's go to bed!"

That was all. Having said her say Rose was content to forget the affair and Susan was grateful to her. She knew the story would travel no further. She thought she would never drop off to sleep but so superb was her health and so clear her conscience, how that her fault was confessed in five minutes she was breathing deeply and evenly, safe in the land of dreams.

The next morning, however, the ordeal came brooding back to her. She began to worry. What if Mr. Heath should find out? What if Ray should talk? Susan knew her own conduct would bear a close scrutiny but she also knew how such matters can be distorted. She arrived at the office in a fever of apprehension.

Everything seemed quite as usual. There was Pierson at his high desk with his ledger spread out before him. There was the next little pile of mail to be sorted and, in five minutes, there was Mr. Heath, dapper and well groomed as ever. Susan felt like a thief and a coward as she returned - her theory, quite well, she knew what would be his opinion of her part in last night's entertainment. She valued his esteem. It had, in fact, become necessary and important to her. Because she was a woman, she knew that esteem had been increasing of late. Little things that had happened, words dropped by Pierson, the occasional flash of approbation from Heath's keen eyes had told her that.

Uncle Wiggily's Music Top

By HOWARD R. GARIS

Baby Bunty was ill. The little orphan rabbit, who lived with Uncle Wiggily, was not really ill enough to have Dr. Possum, but she had to stay in bed and couldn't go to school with the other bunnies.

"How sick am I?" asked Baby Bunty when Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy, finding her with the snuffle snuffles in the morning, said she needn't get up and go down to breakfast with the other rabbits.

"Oh, you're just sick enough to stay home from school," laughed the kind.

What a jolly top

old, squeaky muskrat lady housekeeper. "But I must not stay home from school," said Baby Bunty. "I must go to school."

"I want to go to school," said Baby Bunty. "I want to go to school."

"You have a little cold," said Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy.

"And you must stay in," added Mrs. Longears.

"But how can I have any fun," asked Baby Bunty. "It's fun to go to school and I want some fun."

"Uncle Wiggily will make fun for you," Nurse Jane promised.

"Indeed, I will," agreed the old rabbit gentleman. He had been about to hop away and look for an adventure, but when he heard Baby Bunty was ill, he said he would stay home and amuse her.

"Do you know any games?" asked Baby Bunty. "Let's play a game."

"Let's play a game," said Uncle Wiggily. "You needn't get out of bed and run around. And you can't do that when you have a cold."

"No, that's so," agreed the little orphan rabbit. "Then let's play a game."

"To play bean bag," said Uncle Wiggily. "I would have to throw the bean bag to you and you would have to throw it to me and that would take your paws from under the covers. And when you have a cold you must keep warm."

"That's so," agreed Bunty, sniffing a little. "Well, if we can't play bean bag, what can we play?"

"I'll tell you a bedtime story," offered Mr. Longears.

"Being sick in bed is enough without hearing a bedtime story," said Bunty with a little laugh. "Please make me some fun!"

"I'll tell you what I'll do," said Uncle Wiggily after a while. "I'll hop to the store and see if I can find something to amuse you."

"That will be fun!" said Baby Bunty. "Hurry back!" she called after Mr. Longears as he hopped down the stairs.

"I will," he promised. It did not take him long to get to the top store and as he entered the jolly old dog gentleman who kept the place was spinning a big red top on the counter. As the top spun around it made music and Uncle Wiggily said:

"Oh, what a jolly top. What makes it play music?"

"Because it is a musical top," answered the store dog. "Inside it has some keys or music fiddlers like those in a piano. It is spun and as the top spins it makes a breeze blow on the musical fiddlers and the top plays."

"That will be the very thing for Baby Bunty," said Uncle Wiggily as he stretched out one paw for the music top.

"Don't touch it! Don't touch it!" barked the store dog.

"Why not?" asked the rabbit.

"If you touch the top it will stop making music," was the answer. "Not only that but it goes so fast that it may nick the fur off your paw if you touch it when it is going around so fast."

"Oh, then I won't touch it," said Uncle Wiggily. So he watched the top spin on the counter. After a while the music faded away. "The top," instead of standing up straight and whirling around, began to wobble from side to side.

"What's it doing that for?" asked the rabbit gentleman.

"It's almost done spinning," said the dog. "It needs winding up again. Do you want to buy this music top?"

"Yes," answered Mr. Longears. "You show me how it works and I'll take it to Baby Bunty who is home ill in bed with a cold."

So the store dog showed the rabbit how to wind a string around the top and, by pulling it off quickly, to spin it so as played music. Then, putting the top in his pocket, Uncle Wiggily started to hop back to the bungalow. But something happened. I'll tell you about it in the next story which will be called Uncle Wiggily and the noisy cat.

I must ask you, please, to stop putting lilylops in the keyhole, else the postman can't open the door to leave the letters.

Books of the Ages

Among the famous legends which have grown up in Europe is the one about Dr. Faustus. It seems that there was a real person - Johann Faust by name - who gave start to this legend, though he did not know that he was doing so.

Mephisto comes to take Faust away.

Between Faust and his visitor, whom we may call "Mephisto," a bargain was made. Writing with blood taken from his own veins, Faust agreed to sell his soul to Mephisto in exchange for magic knowledge. In a chariot drawn by a demon, say the legend, Faust was taken on a night-ride trip through the sky. The he was given a tour around Europe and to far India. At one time, through his black art, he raised the spirit of Alexander the Great.

After twenty-four exciting years lived under the terms of his bargain, Faust was seized by Mephisto and taken to his kingdom.

This is a good example of how a true story may grow into one which is far from true.

The legend of Dr. Faustus and his black art was used by a famous German writer, Johann Goethe, as the basis for a long poem called "Faust." Goethe made several changes in the old legend. His work is looked upon as a classic which deserves to take a place among the Books of the Ages.

STUDENTS SOON TO SEEK GOLD

First of 200 Prospectors Now Being Trained to Leave Early For Fields

Secrets of Finding Rich Pockets of Mineral Wealth and Getting It Out Given

The first of the group of 200 new prospectors now taking the training course at the Parliament Buildings, under the Department of Mines and the Vancouver Island Prospectors' Association, will start for the Cariboo and other B.C. gold fields within ten days, it was announced today.

Among the number are women, some of them wives who will accompany their husbands-prospectors, and the others young women seeking to make their own way towards a career and riches, having tired of the monotony of their routine social circles.

"It will be more hard work than delving for years of your life," said Thomas Robertson, who is giving the practical gold extraction courses. "Do not be too optimistic about making your fortune overnight, but if I were a young man, I would give it a trial and see if I could make a nice clean-up instead of sitting idle around the cities."

In his lecture and demonstration at the Bureau of Mines Buildings on Parliament Square, he told the new prospectors how to find gold and how to get it out quickly. He told how the placer miners suddenly come into rich pockets which net them quick clean-ups of $3,000 to $8,000 in gold. He gave in detail the old miners' secrets of finding rich deposits of gold in certain old channels and some spots now high up and dry where the gold was deposited in olden times. He told them how they would likely find very rich pockets of gold in the inside curves of rivers which have not already been cleaned out by prospectors.

DO NOT GET DISCOURAGED
 "You must not get discouraged if you run out of pay streak, as long as you are getting colors in your pan," he continued, pointing to the persistence of the Chinese gold men who, he declared, were the best placer men in the country. He said these Chinese have been working with patience for years, sometimes in thin stuff, which would be better "washed" into rich pockets out of which they would take thousands of dollars, coming to the city on their annual visit with their pockets bulging with money.

He advised placer prospectors setting out for the upper country to make only small rockers and showed them how to use them to get the gold out. J. D. Galloway, provincial mineralogist, at 8 o'clock this evening in the legislative restaurant at the Parliament Buildings, will deliver a lecture in which he will give details of the mining opportunities in B.C. now awaiting the new prospectors or others.

Dr. T. A. Rickard of San Francisco, internationally-known mining engineer, mineralogist, author and editor of The American Mining and Engineering Journal, has been obtained to give the lecture in Victoria "that will come as the climax and finale of the course for the new prospectors. This will be delivered on March 1.

George E. Winkler, president of the Vancouver Island Prospectors' Association, lectured in the main hall of the Bureau of Mines on rock formations.

Birthday Greetings Are Extended To-day To—

PERCY MARCHANT
A. R. BIRKETT
JAMES LUNN
R. R. GRICE
GEORGE PETERSON
JAMES PETERSON

Percy Marchant, well-known Victoria lawyer, celebrates a birthday today. Mr. Marchant is a Rotarian. He is a son of William Marchant, a former mayor of Victoria.

A. R. Birkett, 915 Hilda Avenue, was born forty-three years ago today. For many years prior to the Great War he worked for the B.C. Electric Railway Company as conductor. He has resided in Victoria twenty years. He enlisted and went to France in 1914 as a stretcher-bearer, returning after the Armistice. Mr. Birkett holds a unique souvenir in the shape of a watch trio by which he kept in his tunic pocket. There is a hole through them both penetrated by a piece of shrapnel, and though it entered his body the watch and pay book broke the force of impact and probably saved his life. An interesting record of the exploits of the 15th Field Ambulance in France was compiled by Mr. Birkett.

George and James Peterson, shook hands with themselves today as they celebrated their twenty-eighth birthdays. They are the twin sons of the late Gus Peterson, who was well-known on the waterfront as foreman of the Empire Stevedoring Co. George has succeeded to his father's job as foreman and James works with the firm. James has three boys and George has one boy and one girl. They both reside on Superior Street.

James Lunn, 319 St. James Street, celebrated a birthday today. He is a native son and a member of the Victoria fire department. Jimmy is married and has two children.

R. R. Grice, 1747 First Street, is another member of the Victoria fire department celebrating a birthday today. Mr. Grice is married and has two children. He has a reputation as a softball player.

Mr. Birkett has a wife and three children, the children forming the bunny trio who posed for the picture that carried first prize in the Victoria Daily Times snapshot contest.

Methods of extracting the pay metals. Dealing with the finding of the mineral, he said, the greatest difficulty was in some parts of B.C. was the growth of underbrush. He counselled the new prospectors to proceed along valleys, washing the beds of streams and looking out for pieces of quartz that have rolled down from surrounding hills. He advised them to look for rock with a crust, where the outside iron deposit has rusted. It has been found this is the most likely pay rock.

H. R. Punnett of Duncan, retired South African mining expert, lectured on various aspects of mineral veins, emphasizing the fact that the richest veins in dollars to the ton does not always pay the best, as the vein must be broad and easily handled before it will repay the trouble of working it. H. T. Nation of the department lectured on the Pioneer Mine, tracing its development from the crude crushers, windmills and tracks of the early days, to the machinery of today and its output which has made it the richest producing mine in British Columbia.

At the meeting of the British Columbia Historical Association, to be held this evening at 8 o'clock at the Provincial Library, C. French will be the speaker. Mr. French, who has been the fur trade commissioner for years with the Hudson's Bay Company, has taken as his subject, "Amundsen's Northwest Passage Explorations." This will be illustrated by maps and slides made for the occasion. Visitors will be welcome.

Moratorium Law Rights Tested

Everett Bank Fights Refusal of Judge to Foreclose on Barnett Lumber Co.

With Mr. Justice Archer Martin presiding as acting chief justice, the Court of Appeal today began the hearing of the case involving the refusal of Mr. Justice Fisher in the supreme court to grant foreclosure on the Barnett Lumber Company and its extensive property holdings on the lower mainland.

The original action was brought by the Everett Trust and Savings Bank, who, with G. S. Clark as counsel, is carrying on the present appeal, Section 5, chapter 38, of the Mortgage and Purchase of Land Act, commonly known as the Moratorium Act, passed by the British Columbia Legislature in 1932, is the point at issue, as it gives a judge discretionary powers in respect to granting a foreclosure.

Fighting the appeal here as defendants are Albert Percy Foster as trustee of the Barnett Lumber Company Limited, Everett Trust and Savings Bank, Hanna Logging Company, Evelyn K. Hartley, Edwin W. Hartley, Jesse H. Davis, W. H. Cleaver, May P. Clough, L. L. Crosby, E. C. Mony, H. M. Robbins, the Bank of New Scotia and the First National Bank of Everett.

For Mr. Foster, D. S. Montgomery is appearing as counsel, with A. R. MacDougall conducting the defence of all the other parties.

Mr. Clark told the court of the issues of promissory notes, especially one to the Everett Trust for $250,000, made by the Barnett company, to secure which the bank was given a mortgage on all the properties. There was also in May, 1931, another issue of $100,000 floated. Taxes are mounting on the property at the rate of $14,600 a year. Altogether at the end of this year there will be total charges accumulated against the properties of $401,500.

Against this, the defence pointed out that the company had made an investment of $1,871,341, and protested any foreclosure in view of these facts. The appeal is continuing.

TO CO-OPERATE ON PUBLICITY

Vancouver and Victoria Bureaus to Maintain Mutually Helpful Relations

Victoria and Vancouver publicity organizations will maintain their usual co-operation in directing tourists to this part of the world during 1933. It was stated at a special meeting of the local and mainland bureau delegates in the Chamber of Commerce today.

Plans for the year and matters related to tourist travel generally were freely discussed at the meeting at which the Vancouver organization was represented by Harold Darling, president; D. T. Thomson and E. H. Adams, vice-presidents; J. C. McPherson, past president, and C. H. Webster, commissioner. Harold Husband, recently elected president of the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau, occupied the chair.

The James Bay Parent-Teacher Association will hold a five hundred card party at 8 o'clock to-night in South Park School.

SCHOOL COST RELIEF SOUGHT

Ratepayers' Association Suggests Transfer of Responsibility to Province

Assumption by the provincial government of the entire cost of education will be advocated this evening at the annual meeting of the Victoria Ratepayers' Association, to be held at the Chamber of Commerce Auditorium at 8 o'clock. A resolution addressed to the City Council, will urge the matter be brought before the Union of British Columbia Municipalities at the convention to open here on March 1.

"The time has arrived when relief should be given the land owner from taxation for educational purposes, rather than an increased burden placed in his shoulders," a resolution will set out, after viewing with alarm the expressed intention of the British Columbia government to reduce grants to municipalities.

Other resolutions to be offered this evening will favor a moratorium on taxes on hotel houses, denounce the organized fire insurance companies as "dictatorial" in their attitude towards the city fire fighting equipment, and support abandonment of taxation of the capital worth of land in favor of a tax on rental or income value.

TALKS RELIEF WITH MINISTER

Mayor's Conference With Unemployment Committee Was Not Held

When a projected interview with the sub-committee of the cabinet on unemployment relief failed to materialize, Mayor Leeming discussed relations between the government and the city on relief with Hon. R. W. Bruhn, Minister of Public Works, this morning.

The mayor was to have taken up the case of the complaining single men with the unemployment committee, but the ministers concerned were not all able to attend. He talked the situation over with Mr. Bruhn, however.

Brooklyn Pulls Smart Baseball Deal in Trading Dazzy Vance

St. Louis Cards Have Nice Job of Making Veteran Take Out

Gene Sarazen Recommends Exercise to Improve One's Golf Game

THE BASEBALL FANS of Brooklyn are no doubt dazed, the National League is dazed, and President Sam Breadon should be dazed if he is not not to mention the profound surprise of Dazzy Vance, Vance, as much of an institution with the Brooklyn Dodgers as Uncle Wilbert Robinson used to be, avows one morning recently to find he has been traded, along with Gordon Slade, shortstop, to the St. Louis Cards for Pitcher Owen Carroll and Infielder Jake Flowers. And so we find the Brooklyn club foisting on Sam Breadon a club that calls for gentle manipulation.

The Brooklyn club has been trying to slice Vance's yearly salary from $10,000 to $9,000. Naturally it expected trouble when the old speedball artist was faced with such a slice. And Breadon got the trouble and harrier who won twelve while losing eleven last season.

It is not hard to picture Vance, with pencil in hand and the National League pitching averages spread on a table before him. His earned run average last year was 4.19 which was not so hot for a $10,000 pitcher. Also, his percentage showed twelve games won and eleven lost, which also is not very tepid. Vance, however, but it is a safe bet Vance will find something in the figures with which to fight any plan to cut his pay. Two years ago he demanded $25,000 from Brooklyn which countered with a proposal of $17,500.

The year before, Vance's earned run average had been 2.61, which is a fine and dandy earned run average, and Dazzy had won seventeen games against fifteen lost, which is a lot of labor for any hurler, the veteran having worked in 259 innings. Vance was advised to sign by Robinson. However, he decided to hold out and later signed for $23,000.

But Dazzy didn't do $23,000 worth of pitching in 1931. He won eleven games, against thirteen lost, and his earned run average per game amounted to 3.37. He didn't have the figures to fight with, nor he have Uncle Robbie to argue with.

It had been fun arguing with Uncle Robbie, who usually gave in, but Dazzy found Max Carey a different kind of tomato.

He signed in February last year, taking a $7,000 cut.

They offered Vance another $7,000 cut this year. And Dazzy, with that awful 4.9 earned run average, is seriously handicapped for an argument. Accordingly his speech this year will be something like this:

"They counted me out of the picture in 1932 when my earned run average was 3.37, and only a few points better than last year's. I was through, they figured. But the next year I came right back with an earned run average of 2.70 and won sixteen games."

Gene Sarazen, asked for advice about golf practice, recommended exercise that builds up the wrists and forearm. He swings an extra heavy club for this purpose, then plays with a normal one. It has been said so often, and so wrongly, that golf is one game where strength doesn't help. The best golfers all hit the ball much harder, as well as straighter, than the average man. Their wrists and forearms are built up by constant play and long practice.

Many authorities, even including Bobby Jones, were inclined to scoff at Sarazen's early last year because Gene went into severe training before the big open tournaments. He took off weight, swung his heavy club to develop his wrists, and figured that all his shots. He figured that golf wasn't entirely different from any other known sport; that superior condition would win it. It did. He won both the British open and American open, somewhat confusing his critics.

The further development of many good golfers, both men and women, is held back because their arms and wrists are not strong enough to let them hit a good, hard shot. They wonder why lessons and play don't lengthen their shots. Some day professional golfers are going to point out the value of strength in golf and these people will begin to improve.

Break Loose With Dynamic Attack To Whip Ottawa 6 to 2

Aurel Joliat Features Flying Frenchmen's Offensive With Three Goals

Toronto Hands Rangers Defeat

Maple Leafs in Championship Form; Chicago Hawks Eke Out Win Over Boston

There was reason to believe to-day that Leo Dandurand, the veteran whose player speculations have brought him world championships, had completed the psychological finesse of the National Hockey League season.

A Canadian team that played so futilely just two weeks ago that most of Montreal's French faithful joined magnate Dandurand in expressions of disgust put on its second straight high-scoring spree yesterday evening at Ottawa and blanked the Senators 6 to 0. Two nights before they dropped a 6 to 2 barrage on the heads of the Detroit Red Wings.

A fast change and a hair-raising string of forcible ejection threats, including sale by auction of more than one star, lifted Canadiens to peak form in 10 minutes. To-day the play-off action of the Canadian group is not far off.

The Flying Frenchmen stole the four-ring ice show yesterday evening despite a sensational triumph by New York by Toronto Maple Leafs and Montreal Maroons' brilliant battle at Detroit, where they held the Red Wings to a 2 to 2 overtime tie. The Leafs outplayed the Rangers, 5 to 2.

Young Bill Beveridge was besieged by a Canadian attack that never let up. Howie Morenz led it, turning loose with all his speed, and little Aurel Joliat provided the fine touches, scoring three goals. Art Groulx scored two, and Gerald Carson, the other, Morenz contributed his eighteenth assist of the season to one of the Joliat tallies. The win, which gave the Leafs an even better game back of New York Americans.

Toronto won the season's series from the Rangers, 6 to 4, by outshooting the Bluebirds. Harvey Jackson, the league's leading scorer last year, laced three shots past Andy Aitkenhead. Bill Cook, Rangers, added one assist to bring his total to thirty-five.

The Rangers' defeat cost the New Yorkers a share in the American section leaders, Detroit pulling ahead with the points they earned against Maroons. Joliat scored twice in the second period, breaking the tie between the Red Wings and the end of the second period. Dave Trotter had just finished putting Defenceman Art Coulter added to his pinch-hitting record at Chicago with a third-period goal that gave the Hawks a 2 to 1 win over Boston Bruins.

New York Feb. 17.—The champion Toronto Maple Leafs, leaders of the Canadian section of the National Hockey League, outplayed and outplayed New York Rangers, their Stanley Cup rivals last spring, to gain a 5 to 2 victory yesterday evening in their final clash of the regular season. Toronto won four out of six encounters.

The defeat cost the Rangers their half share in the American section lead, putting them a point behind Detroit Red Wings.

Harvey "Busher" Jackson, star left winger, who led the Leafs in scoring last season, returned to his best form to share the honors of the game with Goals Lorne Chabot, Jackson scored three of the Toronto goals, one in each period, and threatened to get a good many more.

Rangers—Aitkenhead, E. Seibert, Johnson, Omondson, Dillon, Murdoch, Sube, Boucher, F. Cook, W. Cook, Somers, Belle Siebert, Keeling, Pettigrew, Heller, Brennan.

Maple Leafs—Chabot, Clancy, Horner, Thomas, Bailey, Cotton, Sube, Primeau, Conacher, Jackson, Orsice, Downie, Day, Levinsky.

Third period—6, Rangers, Dillon (F. Cook-W. Cook), 10.36; 7, Toronto, Jackson, 11.30. Penalties: Cotton, Levinsky, Bailey.

Detroit, Feb. 17.—In a thrilling, rapid-fire match, Detroit's Red Wings and the Montreal Maroons battled to a 2 to 2 overtime tie here in yesterday evening's National League hockey match before some 10,000 spectators.

Playing without Ebbie Goodfellow for the entire game, and minus young Eddie Wiseman for the last two periods, the Wings managed to battle the Maroons on even terms throughout the contest. A soft goal passed John Rose Rensch, Wing goalie, late in the second period, proving the blow that turned back the flying Detroit team.

Frank Boucher, Rangers, was still leading the entire league in the matter of assists with twenty-one, while Northcott and F. Cook, Rangers, were tied for the most goals scored, each with twenty.

Howie Morenz was the standout performer of the Canadian rout, even the rabid Ottawa crowd giving him cheer after cheer for his efforts.

LINE-UPS
Ottawa, Feb. 17.—Montreal Canadiens looked like the team that led the entire line of the hockey league last season when they took a 6 to 2 decision from Ottawa Senators here yesterday evening. SCOTTISH TEAMS IN CUP FIXTURES

Third Round of Feature Competition on To-morrow; Rangers Oppose Kilmarnock

Glasgow, Feb. 17.—Seeking promotion to the fourth round, eight teams will battle in the Scottish Cup competition to-morrow while four others, lucky enough to draw byes, get a new slant on the soccer picture from grandstand seats.

All twelve playing to-morrow are from the first division. Three second division representatives still in the hunt. Albion Rovers, Stenhousemuir and Hibernians, drew byes with Clyde, senior circuit members.

Quality of the teams competing assures brilliant action in typical cup settings for the third round matches. Enormous crowds are expected at all the games. Only one team ran, with any confidence, be called to win. Playing at top form. Motherwell, second to Rangers in the league standing, should have no great difficulty trouncing Dundee, who are in the bottom-half of the standing tables.

Other games, however, are not as easy to call. Hearts and St. Johnstone, separated by only three points in the league records, are as evenly matched as possible. It is a toss, too, whether Celtic or Partick Thistle will come out of their game with the long end of the score.

Rangers, league leaders, who were tied twice to 1 to 1 draws before they finally arose in their might and smothered Celtic's Park in second round play will have to show improvement over their previous cup form to win against Kilmarnock. The latter, who defeated St. Mirren 1 to 0 in the second round, appear to be playing in good form and expect to take a fall out of the Glasgow team.

No Scottish league games are scheduled for to-morrow.

A larger number than usual of United States competitors is expected to play in the Canadian championship play as the United States women's championships will finish at Chicago a week prior to the opening of the Canadian tourney.

St. Louis, Feb. 17 (Associated Press).—Stop-watches showed that a "hoopla" goal could shed her dress twelve seconds quicker than a hoop girl. CARNERA IS NOT BLAMED

Mother of Late Ernie Schaaf Sends Message to Big Italian

Wrentham, Mass., Feb. 17.—Although overwhelmed by her own grief, the mother of the late Ernie Schaaf yesterday tried to send a ray of comfort to the man who fought her son in his fatal boxing match.

"Kindly be assured," she telegraphed to Primo Carnera in New York, "that I do not consider you in any way responsible for the death of my boy."

The three managers who directed Schaaf in life were united about his bier yesterday. Phil Schlossberg, who took Ernie under his capable wing when they were shipmates aboard the U.S.S. Denver and who served as his first manager, was so overcome by the tragedy he resolved to retire from boxing. He mailed his manager's card back to the New York Athletic Commission.

Jack Sharkey, who joined Johnny Buckley in taking over Schaaf's contract from Schlossberg, vowed that the would not manage another boxer while he held the heavyweight championship.

Rangers, league leaders, who were tied twice to 1 to 1 draws before they finally arose in their might and smothered Celtic's Park in second round play will have to show improvement over their previous cup form to win against Kilmarnock. The latter, who defeated St. Mirren 1 to 0 in the second round, appear to be playing in good form and expect to take a fall out of the Glasgow team.

No Scottish league games are scheduled for to-morrow.

OLD-TIMERS IN HOCKEY MATCH

Six Teams of a Dozen Players Engage in Novel Exhibition at Calgary

Calgary, Feb. 17.—One hundred hockey stars of a by-gone day stepped on to tricky ice with the steel blades here yesterday evening in an old-timers battle which saw the Reds lose to the Whites 4 to 1. Stars of pro and amateur ranks from Coast to Coast, now resident in Calgary district, took part in the affair.

The players divided into six teams of a dozen each, with each team playing one period of the full one-hour battle. Three teams made up the Reds and the other three composed the Whites.

Two of the periods went scoreless, but in the third all five counters were chalked up. Harry Scott, formerly of the Montreal Canadiens, scored twice for the Whites and counted in an assist, while Art Lowe, who played all his hockey in Calgary district, counted one goal and assist for the Reds. Norman Scott, another Calgary amateur, scored the fourth White's goal, while the lone goal of the Reds came from the stick of Eddie King, a Calgary amateur, who once bid for a place on the Ottawa Senators.

J.B.A.A. To Meet Wanderer's Fifteen In Important Match

Victory For Former To-morrow Will Give Them Senior City Rugby Title

Game Billed At Athletic Park

Watch Players For Rep Team Selections; Scottish Play Navy at Oak Bay

In quest of another victory which would give them the city championship and the right to meet Vancouver's title-holders for the provincial laurels, James Bay Athletic Association rugger will take the field almost at full strength against Oak Bay Wanderers to-morrow.

"Buzz" Brown, smart five-eighths, and Pete Turgoose, who have proved their value on the city's rep squad, will be missing, but apart from that the rowing club's regulars will be available for duty in the classic at the Athletic Park.

THEIR BIG CHANCE
It will be the Wanderers' big chance to make their way into the city championship play-off. A victory for them to-morrow, against the undefeated Bays, will force a play-off. If the Oak Bay boys are unable to take the mastery of the rowing club, the latter will annex the city crown.

At Oak Bay Park the Canadian Scottish, city champions last year, will meet the Navy in what should prove another interesting game.

WILL TRY FOR REP SQUAD
The matches in the first division will be all the more important in view of the fact that players will be selected to see if they are of rep team calibre.

With the next McKinnon Cup fixture in which the Capitals will participate, billed for February 28 in Vancouver, the local squad will most probably be selected following to-morrow's games. Without the benefit of an exhibition between two picked squads, the committee, namely, the Crimson Tide will have to depend on the showing of the boys in league fixtures to a large extent in choosing the fifteen.

Among the Annandale's originally billed to clash in the sports week exhibition, Roddy McInnes stands out as the major bet for fullback duty.

ALL-STAR PROSPECTS
Brian Hunningham, Lynn Patrick, Pete Turgoose and "Buz" Brown should gain places in the backfield, providing all are physically fit. Frank Skillings would probably be named for duty on the three-quarter line if he decided to try for a place. Larry Henderson, Harry Robson of the Scottish will also be considered for the halfback division, it is believed.

Among the forwards, Bruce and Campbell Forbes, Bert Bruce, Dick Nixon, Harry Peard, Jack Dunn, Chas. Usher, Ted May and Horace Good look like prospective rep men.

In addition to these, Bob Engelson, Bill Latta, Ted Colgate, Roy Haines, Bill Boorman, "Speed" Williams, Bill Murray, "Muzz" Patrick, Logan May, Harry Hargreaves, Sprinkling and Acland are catching the eye of the selections committee and may snag places.

With the possibility of breaking into rep team company, players will be stimulated to an even higher standard of rugby in Saturday's games.

OTHER GAMES
In the senior B division James Bay Athletic Association is slated to meet Victoria College at Work Point Barracks, while the Fifth Brigade will tackle the United Services at the Canton grounds.

Victoria College is billed to meet University School at Victoria High School grounds, and the Gunners are scheduled to play the Oak Bay Wanderers at Oak Bay Park in the intermediate division.

All games are scheduled to start at 3 o'clock.

Some of the line-ups follow:
J.B.A.A. senior A—Zetter, Hunningham, Dunn, Patrick, Turgoose, Addison, Stevens, Murray, Sprinkling, Lemm, Pettigrew, Usher, De Blacque, Peard and Good.

J.B.A. senior B—Webb, Anderstam, Barrett, Tobin, Montekski, Temple, George, Armstrong, Stewart, O. Scott, Rooney, Beck, Macmurchie, Lowe and E. Scott, Reserve, Harding.

Scottish senior A—Colgate, Hocking, Colman, Boorman, Kinsman, Woodley, Robson, May, C. and B. Forbes, Rockingham, A. and J. Briggs, Grant and Gowin.

Wanderers' Intermediate—Melville, Laver, Simpson, Cox, Shepherd,

McGill Takes Hockey Title

Montreal, Feb. 17.—McGill University yesterday evening won the intercollegiate hockey championship by defeating University of Montreal, 4 to 1, in the last scheduled game of the season. WILLOWS WILL OPPOSE DUNCAN

Important First Division Badminton Match Will Be Played This Evening

The postponed first division lower island badminton league match between the Willows and Duncan Club, one of the most important fixtures of the season, will be played at the Willows to-night.

The match is a crucial one as a win for Duncan will put them in the championship, while a victory for the Willows will place them in a tie for first place with Duncan. The strong Duncan team has not been beaten this season, while the Willows have only lost one match, being beaten by Duncan in a close game. The Willows players have been practicing hard for this match and should give the upland players a great fight.

Dick Birch, B.C. singles champion, and Eric Leany, island champion and runner-up to Birch in the provincial meet, will be seen in action.

Play will commence at 7.30 o'clock.

The following players will represent the Willows club: Miss Morley, Mrs. MacDonald, the Misses M. Benson, J. Campbell, I. Benson and M. Campbell; Harry Webb, Peter Phillips, Ted Simons, G. Phillips, W. E. Corfield and Pat Colclough.

Victory For Dockers Will Give Them Second Half Honors in Coast League

Thistles Will Clash With City

Outer Wharf Rangers Meet Maccabees - Wards in Victoria League; Junior Games

One of the finest football matches of the current Coast League football schedule is looked for to-morrow afternoon when the Victoria West and Esquimalt teams hook-up at Central Park. Robb will be the referee. The second first division encounter will bring together Saanich Thistles and Victoria City at Heywood Avenue with Davies handling the whistle.

In the second division Saanich Thistles will oppose Victoria City at upper Beacon Hill, and Victoria West will meet Esquimalt at Hampton Road. McKinnon will referee the first mentioned match and Evans the other.

All four games will commence at 2.45 o'clock.

With six victories and one defeat in the second half, Esquimalt are practically certain winners, although the West still have a mathematical chance of winning. Victory in the second half means entering a play-off against the Saanich Thistles, first half winners, for the league championship.

WESTS POWERFUL

The Wests, under the capable management of Dr. Arthur Poyntz, have come along fast in recent weeks, and now rank as one of the leading football outfits in the city. Last Saturday the green shirted team put on a spirited second half rally to push the Thistles 4 to 3 defeat, their second successive victory over the suburban eleven.

While the Wests were taking the Thistles into camp, Esquimalt suffered its first defeat of the second half, falling before Victoria City, 2 to 1, in one of the season's biggest surprises.

The Wests will be at full strength to-morrow with the return of Ernie Lordan, their hard-working right half-back, who was absent from the line-up last Saturday, owing to illness. The coaches will also have "Scotty" Stewart, their sharp-shooting centre-forward, in top again, after a lay-off due to leg injuries. Both teams are fast and a great battle is anticipated.

After their great win over Esquimalt last week the City are determined to take a fall out of the Thistles, who at present are in last position. A victory for the City will strengthen their hold on third place and push the Thistles deeper into the cellar.

Some of the teams to-morrow follow:

Victoria City, first division—Chalmers, Smith, Harper, Storey, McGee, Smith, Murray, Mail, Pepin, McElroy, Gibbons, Davidson, Blair, Players.

Saanich Thistles, first division—Wilmshurst, Joe Crowe, Leggett, Vigners, Williams, Poir, Kennedy, Ryne, Burns, Saville, Morgan and Jim Crowe.

Victoria City, second division—Wilmshurst, D. Robertson, McMillan, Anderson, Brydson, Knapp, Ryne, Chesworth, Holmes, Thorburn, Vanhersee, James, Smith, Leason. Players to meet at Victoria of France at 1.30 o'clock.

Victoria West, first division—Rowe, Laird, Thompson, Cockin, Peers, Lordan, Condon, Youson, Robinson, Betteridge, Mulcahy, Gibbons, Stewart and Moody.

Esquimalt, first division—De Costa, Joe Watt, March, Edward, Sweeney, W. De Costa, Evans, R. Stewart, J. Watt, A. Stewart, Wagland and Williams.

One match will be played to-morrow in the Victoria and District League with the Outer Wharf Rangers opposing the Maccabees-Wards at the lower Beacon Hill grounds. The game will start at 2.30 o'clock with McMillan as referee.

In their last match the Rangers were beaten 6 to 0 by Duncan, on the latter's grounds.

The Maccabees-Wards team will be as follows: J. Randall, J. Eastick, Bridges, T. Graves, W. Graves, Peffer, Leahy, Noble, Campbell, Gibson, Fish, Doherty, Moss, Poole and Magee.

Three matches will be played to-morrow afternoon in the Junior Football League with the following draw:

James Island vs. Oaklands at Spencer's Park. Referee, Nurse.

Jokers vs. Y.M.C.A. at Victoria West Park. Referee, Bridgen.

Royal Oak vs. Esquimalt at Reynolds' Field. Referee, Tooby.

All games start at 2.30 o'clock.

The Jokers team will be as follows: Baxter, Kennedy, Rickinson, Smith, Mulgrave, Kennedy, Gelling, Stewart, Stevens, McLean and Grove.

Peter Jackson Was Greatest of All Heavyweights In Opinion of Corbett

Sports Editor's Note:—This is the second of a series of articles on the five greatest fights of Jim Corbett.

By BILL BAUCHER

Jim Corbett always has said that Peter Jackson was the greatest of them all.

And there are old-timers who still insist that if Sullivan had not drawn the color line when asked to fight Jackson, the West Indian black man would have been the heavyweight champion of the world.

Corbett was not quite twenty-five years old when he battled Jackson's left arm often troubled him, a result of his use of it that night to ward off Jackson's punches. And early in the fight he came to have a profound respect for Jackson's quick right to the heart—a blow that crunched ribs.

Round after round, while the clock's hands turned past 11 o'clock, then past twelve, these two tore into each other. Then, in the forty-first round, it seemed that Corbett would win. He backed Jackson into a corner, caught him off balance and poured punches upon the black man's head and body.

But Corbett had felt the fury of his tired his own way out.

Corbett's left forearm went lame. Jackson's shoulders became cramped, and an ankle, injured in an accident upon the black man's head and body, was stiff and ached.

Corbett circled his watchful adversary, who stood in the centre of the ring waiting for Jim to come close enough to be hit.

BOTH EXHAUSTED

After fifty-five rounds both were exhausted.

Corbett's legs held out, but Jackson's injured ankle made every step a pain. It appeared Corbett could have bowled Jackson over with a shove. But Corbett had felt the fury of his foe's right fist and would take no chances.

The crowd yelled for action. With both men out on their feet, "the fancy" howled, "Make 'em fight! Make 'em fight!"

But there was no making these two fight longer. It was 2 o'clock and they had struggled for four hours. Referee Hiram Cook addressed both men and they replied they were doing the best they could.

After sixty rounds, the two could only glare at each other. Cook stepped between them in the sixty-first and declared the combat "no contest." Of the $10,000 purse, each man was granted $2,500, with the privilege of fighting again for $7,500. They never did.

THE GREATEST

Looking back upon his fighting career, Gentleman Jim, declared Jackson the greatest man he ever met—though Jeffries and Fitzsimmons knocked Corbett out.

"Jeff and Fitz beat me," said Corbett, "but neither of these gave me the awful time I had with Jackson. He wouldn't let up for a minute. He kept coming with those straight punches—stabbing and jabbing—for what seemed hours that would never end."

"When I fought Jeffries and Fitzsimmons I could relax occasionally. But I knew that I dared not ease up for one second against Peter Jackson."

newspapers to install ring-side wires or telephones.

TERRIBLE RIGHT

The fight started at 10 p.m. During the first few rounds the crowd applauded Corbett's aggressiveness. Jim scored repeatedly with "rusty" lefts to the head and body. Jackson used straight lefts and rights and he had a terrible right hand.

Erratic Trading In Grain To-day

Canadian Press
Winnipeg, Feb. 17.—Trading in wheat on the grain exchange here to-day was erratic and prices moved in a range of one cent. Substantial export of Canadian wheat, estimated at from 500,000 to 1,000,000 bushels, enabled prices to close unchanged to 1/2 lower.

May closed at 48 1/2, July at 49 1/2, and October at 50 1/2.

Prices advanced about half a cent in early trade in spite of indifference at Liverpool and heavy export movement from the Argentine and Australia. Later increased selling brought a drop of one cent from the high points and erratic trading set in. The close was firm.

Broomhall intimated the United Kingdom was buying considerable quantities of Canadian wheat at Vancouver and showed the Dominion was still getting a large share of British wheat import trade.

Interest in cash wheat and coarse grains was, as usual, unimportant and sales were confined to odd cars.

Stocks Keep Early Gains At New York: "Wet" Issues Strong

Canadian Press
New York, Feb. 17.—Earlier gains of fractions to two points were maintained in the late dealings on the stock exchange to-day. Rails firmed while the so-called "wet" stocks held steadily to their earlier advances, accompanied by a gentle backing and filling movement in the main list of securities.

Santa Fe, Union Pacific, McKeesport, United States Industrial Alcohol, Allied Chemical and Case were up a point. Gains of two points were held by National Distillers, Owens Bottle and Glass, and the rest of the list generally firmed, although trading was quiet. Principal commodity markets were steady to firm, and pressure against the bond market abated.

The heifers were mostly handys, weighing from 12 to 16 cwt. per head, dressed weight. Steers of fairly good quality and suitable weights averaged around 12 cwt. per head. None of the

Merely Picking Out Her Own Husband Won't Insure a Woman's Being Satisfied With Him When She Gets Him Home — But the Chances Are Infinitely Better Than When She Is Forced to Take What She Can Get

A LEARNED professor advises the young men in his class to let girls do the courting and pick their husbands because then "the woman can have no complaint to make of her own choice." This, in the main, is good advice, but it is no foolproof recipe for securing a contented wife. Because a woman selects a thing doesn't insure her being satisfied with it, as every woman knows who has bought a perfectly darling hat or a dream of a dress that fired her fancy, and then, when she got it home, found out she had lost her liking for it, and that it wasn't her lines or her style at all, and that she just perfectly loathed it. Every big department store will tell you that women send back a large proportion of the goods they buy to the bargain counter.

And it is the same way with husbands. Many a woman who is simply crazy about a man before marriage, and thinks she will die if she doesn't get him, is mad at him the balance of her life after she is married to him and spends her time wondering what on earth she ever saw in him that made her think she desired him.

Still, on the whole, there is no doubt that there would be more and better marriages and less divorce if women were able to select their mates instead of having to take whatever is offered them in the way of a husband. For husbands are purely a matter of taste, and no more to be argued about than whether one prefers green to red, or likes beefsteak with onions or not. It does not matter what a man is or does. The only thing that counts is whether he suits his wife or not.

You see plenty of happy and contented women married to men who neglect them and half starve them, and plenty of miserable and discontented women married to men who are models of all the virtues and who lap them in luxury, and the explanation of this strange feminine vagary is that one woman for some strange reason that she couldn't account for herself, has got the man she wanted, and the other one hasn't.

Probably nine-tenths of the disgruntled, peevish, nagging wives are women who are married to their opportunities instead of their preferences, and who are taking out upon their unfortunate spouses their frustrated desire.

It is far more important for a woman to marry the man who is her heart's desire than it is for a man to marry the woman who is his ideal, because marriage is so much more important in the scheme of things to a woman than it is to a man. Every wife is twice as much married to her husband as he is to her. Every wife is dependent upon her husband for happiness as he never is dependent on her.

If a man's marriage does not come up to expectations, he has a thousand consolations. He can turn his career in which he can absorb himself and forget his disappointment. If his home is unpleasant, he can get away from it. He has always the alibi of business, which takes him to far places, or keeps him downtown on an evening. If his wife is dull or quarrelsome company, he can put on his hat and step out and find gayer and more congenial companionship.

But if a woman's marriage is a failure she is sunk. Her great adventure has crashed. The speculation in which she has invested her all has gone bloomy and she is bankrupt.

She has no absorbing occupation to take her mind off her troubles, because it is the curse of housework that you can do it with one lobe of your brain and have all the balance left to worry with and despair with and go round and round the same circle of vain regrets. If her husband makes the home a place of fear and torment with his temper and his grouches, her only avenue of escape from it is by way of the divorce court. If her husband is a bore, a disagreeable companion, she cannot put on her prettiest frock and go places and do things without involving herself in a scandal.

It is because a woman's happiness and well-being are so inextricably bound up in her getting the kind of husband she wants that it is more important that she should get her choice in one than it is a man should get his choice in a wife.

And it is more important that a woman should be madly, wildly, passionately in love with her husband than it is that she should be madly, wildly, passionately in love with her. And this for the man's sake as well as hers, because the more a woman loves her husband, the better wife and the happier home she makes him.

When all is said, marriage for a woman is inevitably bound to be full of disappointments and disillusion, of sacrifices and of dull, monotonous labor. These cannot be helped. They are simply part of the game. No woman may hope to avoid them and the only palliative is love. The only thing that makes them endurable is for a woman to be so much in love with her husband that he keeps her perpetually thrilled and interested and makes everything she does for him a joy and a delight.

The woman who is deeply in love with her husband is always on her tiptoes trying to please him, and that puts meaning into life. She never lets herself go slouchy. She gets a sacred thrill out of making herself a burnt offering on the cookstove preparing him a good dinner. His conversation never falls upon her, not even when he monologues about himself. His coming home of an evening hangs the sun in her heaven. It is love and love alone that gold-plates the wedding ring.

And so the professor is wise when he advises young men to marry the girls who are in love with them and who have selected them for mates. A woman may not always be satisfied with her choice, but the odds are that she will be more contented as the chooser than the choosee.

The West Saanich Women's Institute met at the Institute Hall on Tuesday afternoon, when Mrs. V. S. MacLachlan, secretary of Women's Institutes, and Mrs. J. D. Gordon, of Victoria, addressed the meeting. Mrs. MacLachlan took for her subject "What Is Being Done by Other Women's Institutes," and also spoke briefly on the Tudor Rose League. Mrs. Gordon gave an interesting talk on the canning of meats, fruits and vegetables for exhibition purposes. Points to be remembered in the exhibition of needlework were also dealt with by the speaker and much useful information given. Attention of the institute was drawn by Mrs. MacLachlan to the need of a family in an isolated area for footstool for five children. The members agreed to supply these necessities. Parcels of needlework were received from the Solarium and given out to the members to make up into children's garments. Mrs. J. Osborne was appointed to see on the standing committee as convener of emigration. A bridge party to aid the hall painting fund will be held at the home of Mrs. W. Watt on Thursday, March 2, and a picture show and Valentine party will be held at the hall February 22, in aid of the general fund. A working bee for cleaning the hall has been arranged for Tuesday, February 28. The regular fortnightly card party will be held February 22. Following the business, tea was served by the hostesses, Mrs. W. O. Wallace and Mrs. W. Watt.
